87 MINERS ARE LOST IN WYOMING EXPLOSION

VICTIMS ARE BROUGHT FROM MINE DEPTHS

Two Theories Are Advanced As To Cause of Explosion In The Mine

CROWD-AT MINE SHAFT

Hundreds Wait Through Night as Charred Bodies Are Brought to Surface

(By the Associated Press)
Kemmerer, Wyoming, Aug. 15.—In the grip of sorrow and desolation Kemmerer and the little coal camp suburb, Frontier, one mile away, where approximately 100 miners perished yesterday in an explosion in mine No. 1 of the Kemmerer Coal company, today set about the task of preparing her dead for burial.

Early today 87 persons had been recovered.

Throughout the hours of darkness as lights shed a pallid illumination over a weeping, grief-stricken crowd at the portal of the mine rescue workers brought forth the last charred victims of the tragedy.

The only intimation of the disaster was a long tongue of smoke which shot from the fans used to ventilate the mine. The exact cause of the blast remained a mystery early today although officials of the Kemmerer Coal company in a statement issued late yesterday declared a blown out shot was responsible for the detonation.

Another theory is that a careening "trip car" jumping from the track in the 1,700-foot level sent the explosion occurring in the main shaft which ignited a cloud of dust or gas.

Victims Suffocated.

The victims were suffocated as they sought safety from the poisonous gases. Thirty-seven of the 187 or 188 miners who were entombed by the blast have emerged from the mine since 1900 in a rescue operation.

It is believed he will recover.

As news of the explosion spread quickly throughout Kemmerer and Frontier yesterday a crowd estimated to number 1,000 persons gathered at the portal of the mine and maintained a frantic, fearful vigil throughout the day and far into the night. Wives, mothers, daughters and sweethearts of the entombed men pressed against the rope barrier near the shaft and at times overwhelmed the small force of the Kemmerer police and volunteers as rescue crews emerged from the underground tomb.

Hysterically women wept for a husband, father, brother or lover as the hours passed and only a few survivors struggled from the mouth of the pit.

Children's wails mingled with the heart-breaking cries of faithful watchers when it became apparent early last night that no more men remained alive in the mine and rescue workers ceased their search for the living and turned to the task of bringing forth the dead.

BRINGS SUIT FOR INJURIES IN COURT HERE

John R. Kvile, who was injured in a collision at Roscoe and Fourth streets, on September 15, 1922, has brought suit against E. F. Alfson and Alfrid Alfson for $5,000 damages.

This collision was between a motorcycle driven by Kvile and a motor car driven by Miss Alfson. The plaintiff asserts that "by reason of said injuries and fright occasioned by his peril he became very nervous and suffered injuries to his general health," that he suffered two broken and fractured bones in his left leg, which was permanently shortened.

The Peoples State Bank of Casselton has entered suit against C. D. King and F. B. Wood, trustees, on a promissory note of $320. According to the complaint, an accommodation note was given to Mr. Wood by Mr. King and the latter sold it to the Peoples State Bank of Casselton.

STUDENT'S LIVING COST LIES WITH HIM, SAYS U. OF N. D. DIRECTOR

Grand Forks, Aug. 15.—Control of the cost of attending the University of North Dakota lies with the student, according to Professor Albert Yoder, director of the extension division who has just completed an analysis of living costs and incidents involved in attendance at the various colleges of the university.

"The minimum expense exclusive of clothing, railroad fare, and incidentals is $316.50, the average $387.50 and the maximum $475. To these in each case should be added the cost of transportation, clothes and incidental expenses," says Professor Yoder.

"Living expenses for students vary greatly. Those in Budge, Davis, or Macneil halls, university dormitories, board in the University Commons, and pay from $242.50 to $260.50 for board and room for the year. Students living in Harold Sayre or Larimore halls, Wesley college dormitories a block away, may board at University Commons in which case board costs $5.50 a week.

"Students living in private homes may also board at the Commons at the same rate. The cost of rent in private homes ranges from $8 to $15 a month; their board, if they eat at the Commons varies from $25 to $40 a month.

In addition to these living expenses there is the cost of books (estimated at $30) and the cost of laundry (estimated at $65). Many students send their laundry home by parcels post, in which case the only cost is 6 to 15 cents a week for postage.

"The fees for the two semesters in the various colleges total from $30 to $65.

COURT RULES N.P. BLAMELESS IN TWO DEATHS

Reverses Golden Valley Court in Case Arising From Cloud Burst

MUST TAKE THE RISK

Section Men Assume the Risks Incident to Patrolling Tracks, Court Decides

A railroad section crew, one of whose duties is to control the tracks in time of storm, assumes the risks incident to the performance of that duty, the supreme court held today in reversing the Golden Valley County district court in suits brought to recover from the Northern Pacific railroad for the death of Thomas Everett and A. O. McNeer, who were drowned in a cloudburst near Medora in June, 1921. The Everetts estate had won a $10,000 verdict and the McNeer estate a thousand-dollar verdict.

McNeer and Everett, employed by the Northern Pacific, were part of a crew of six working on a stretch of track near Medora. On June 17, 1921 there was a terrific rainstorm in the territory, and the waters from the hills converted the ravines into plunging streams. The section crew was ordered out to patrol the Northern Pacific track. A sudden wall of water swept against the embankment. Three of the crew reached a high point and were safe. Everett, McNeer and one, other did not reach the high ground and they were swept away and drowned.

The decision of the court, by Judge Nussle, holds that "a railroad section crew must assume the danger incident to the duties but that while a railroad section crew, one of whose duties is to patrol the tracks in time of storm, assume the risks ordinarily incident to the duty, it is not to assume extraordinary risks, that performance of that duty, they do it, risks which might be obviated by the exercise of reasonable care on the part of the railroad," and that "it is the duty of a master to warn his servants of any unusual or extraordinary danger which may arise by reason of their carrying out his instructions and of which they are unaware."

The court held that the record did not show a failure on the part of the railroad company to exercise reasonable care under the circumstances as disclosed. The decision was by Justice Nussle and three other members of the court. Chief Justice Bronson dissented.

BOYS FORCED TO TAKE OUT "WOBBLY" CARDS

Two youths who decided to "burn" their way to Bismarck from the west are now members of the L. W. W.—against their will.

They rode freight trains at times, and said that they were forced by the "wobblers" to take out a red card and pay $3.00. They simply could not ride the trains unless they did, they said. Part of the time, however, they rode in automobiles, finding transcontinental tourists very generous in this respect.

HAIL RISKS ARE LARGER

Number of Claims Now Exceed Total Number of Last Year

Hail insurance claims filed with the state hail insurance department already have exceeded the total claims for 1922, according to records of the department. Claims in the present year now total 23,800 as compared to 18,300 for the entire season last year and 16,000 on the same date last year.

Sunday night storms, the latest to be reported, brought heavy claims from northern Burleigh, Kidder, Stutsman, LaMoure and Dunn counties. Other counties reporting heavy losses in the last several days are Slope, Adams, Grant, Bowman, Golden Valley, Billings, Stark, McKenzie.

It is expected that the hail insurance rate, which is fixed after all claims are reported, will be near the maximum permitted by law this year.

Ruin and Desolation Spread Over Valleys

Salt Lake, Aug. 15.—Ruin and desolation today marked the path of the flood which swept over thousands of acres of land in northern Utah Monday night when the flood gates of the altitudinal Wasatch range loosed great torrents down upon the numerous farm settlements and communities nestling along the border of the mountains.

Ten persons were known to have perished at the towns of Farmington and Willard were partially devastated, the total property damage exceeding $1,500,000, according to estimates.

Search for nearly a score of persons reported missing since the flood struck was continued by national guardmen.

COUNTY BUDGET FIXED HIGHER THAN IN 1922

Last Year's Estimate Did Not Prove Sufficient to Meet all the Expenses

LEVY NOT YET FIXED

Valuations Now Before State Board of Equalization for Action There

Burleigh county's budget for the ensuing year has been fixed by the county board of commissioners at $232,427.00, exclusive of interest and sinking funds, which will be reduced from the contemplated figure because the board contracted for the sale of bonds at a figure less than was anticipated.

The budget is higher than last year, it being about $200,000 in 1922. The budget last year did not prove adequate, it is stated by county officials. There is a shortage on the levy, not actually determined as yet, but which may result in county officials and employees not being paid on September 1. The board had advertised the sale of certificates of indebtedness on September 4, and if they are sold salaries will be met.

The tax levy will not be fixed until the state board of equalization has acted upon the county board's figures, and deductions provided by law are made. No estimate can be made by County Auditor Johnson as to how the mill levy will compare with last year, at this time.

MCLEAN COUNTY YOUTH SLAIN IN BUNK HOUSE AT RUSSO WITH AN AX; ROBBERY IS HELD TO BE THE MOTIVE

Washburn, N. D., Aug. 15.—Paul Sundbakken, 22, was slain with an ax yesterday in a bunk house in the freight yards at Russo, a small town in the extreme northern part of McLean county, according to word received at the sheriff's office here today.

Sundbakken, who was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Sundbakken of Russo, evidently had been killed with robbery as a motive, for $15 he had the night before was missing when his body was found Tuesday noon.

No clues whatever have been developed in the case William Schmidt, village marshal, said this afternoon. The apparent motive, officers said, was robbery. No money was found on the dead man's person when a search was made although a cheap watch remained in one of his pockets.

Apparently Sundbakken had been beaten to death with the blunt side of an ax without being able to offer resistance, the village marshal said. Indications were that six blows had been struck. His head was resting on a pillow on the floor. The remainder of the body was in the bunk with the exception of one of the legs which hung over the side of the improvised bed and touched the wall.

GAS "WAR" IS JUST STARTED, IS ASSERTION

Governor, McMaster of South Dakota Declares It Will Continue

Chicago, Aug. 15.—While rejoicing motorists in many states today laid in supplies of gasoline at prices lower than 20 cents investigations designed to secure reductions in prices were under way in states not yet affected by price reductions.

Eastern states today joined the Midwest and southern sections with announced reductions.

"The war has just begun," declared Governor W. H. McMaster of South Dakota, whose orders to state highway depots in South Dakota to sell gasoline at 16 cents a gallon precipitated action by the Standard Oil Company of Indiana to reduce prices. The South Dakota executive said "the war" would continue until gasoline is permanently retailed at a reasonable price.

Secret Service Agents Uncover Plant in New York

New York, Aug. 15.—Seizure of a complete plant for the manufacture of $100 Federal Reserve notes in Floral Park, Long Island, was announced today by Joseph Palma, chief of the secret service agents in New York.

The capture was effected just as operators of the plant were running off the first set of proofs and the promptness of which the secret service acted, prevented any notes from getting into circulation.

Five men alleged to have been implicated were arrested.

Lad Crushed To Death In Fall Under Grain Tank

Devils Lake, N. D., Aug. 15.—Mattie Shell, the six-year-old son of Joe Shell was killed late Sunday morning when he fell from the seat of a grain tank under the front wheels. He suffered internal injuries and died an hour later.

Mattie, sitting on the front seat, with his brother and two playmates, picked up the short reins and leaned forward to strike the horses. The horses jerked forward, throwing the boy under the front wheels of the heavy grain tank. The front and back wheels wheels passed over his chest and stomach.

The little fellow regained his feet apparently not injured, but soon doubled up with pain and was rushed to the hospital, where he died an hour later.

De Valera Had Made Good Promise to Appear at Meeting of Republicans

(By the Associated Press)
Ennis, Ireland, Aug. 15.—Eamonn DeValera, the Republican leader was arrested by Free State troops on his appearance at a Republican meeting. The arrest was made under sensational circumstances.

DeValera was addressing a meeting of electors in the Market Square when Free State troops came to the scene and fired several volleys over the head of the crowd.

A stampede occurred and several arrests were made.

The troops then surrounded the platform and took the leader into custody.

When DeValera appeared on the scene there were many thousands of people around the platform and he was given a tumultuous welcome.

A voice was heard to shout, "the soldiers are coming" and immediately a large body of the military with armed cars surrounded the platform. The crowd stampeded in all directions. The soldiers fired volleys after volleys over the forms. The crowd gathering became more panic stricken as shots were fired. Women shrieked and fainted and some of them were seriously injured in the confusion. It was reported a number of people were wounded.

MAKES GOOD PROMISE

Ennis, County Wick, Ireland, Aug. 15.—Eamonn DeValera made his promised appearance this afternoon at a political meeting here. The Republican leader drove up in an open car undisguised. He was given a wild welcome by a crowd of 1,500 people.

FELL IN FAINT

(By the Associated Press.)
London, Aug. 15.—A dispatch from the Press Association from County Clare, Ireland, says Free State troops have taken Eamonn DeValera to the barracks.

DeValera fell in a faint as he approached the platform, the dispatch said, and at first it was thought he was wounded but later he walked down the steps to the waiting troops who took him.

Vacation For Coolidge Ended

Washington, Aug. 15.—Requirements of the presidency at the present juncture are so great that President Coolidge does not expect to leave Washington this summer or resume his vacation interrupted by the death of President Harding. He recognizes, it was said yesterday, that there are many details of the office with which he is unfamiliar. The quickest way to become acquainted with them, he feels, is by staying here.

It was added that Mr. Coolidge has no intention of making any speaking trips within the next few months.

Secretary To Coolidge Chosen

Washington, Aug. 15.—Former Representative C. Bascom Sliem of Virginia has been tendered and has accepted the position of secretary to President Coolidge.

Announcement of Mr. Sliem's appointment was made at the White House shortly after he had concluded an hour and a half conference with Mr. Coolidge. Mr. Sliem will not be able to close up his personal affairs and take permanent charge of his office until after Labor day and meantime Geo. B. Christian, Jr., secretary to the late President Harding, will act as acting secretary.

The appointment of Mr. Sliem came as a surprise, inasmuch as his name had not been mentioned in connection with the secretaryship.

NOTE CASE DECIDED

The supreme court, in announcing today a reversal of the case of the First National Bank of William against Emma C. The bank claimed $2,800 was due on the note while defendant held that the note was merely an accommodation note.

O. McNeer, who were drowned in a cloudburst near Medora in June, 1921. The Everett estate had won a $10,000 verdict and the McNeer estate a thousand dollar verdict.

McNeer and Everetts, employed by the Northern Pacific, were part of a crew of six working on a stretch of track near Medora. On June 17, 1921 there was a terrific rainstorm in the territory, and the waters from the hills converted the ravines into plunging streams. The section crew was ordered out to patrol the Northern Pacific track. A sudden wall of water swept against the embankment. Three of the crew reached a high point and were safe. Everetts, McNeer and one other did not reach the high ground and they were swept away and drowned.

The decision of the court, by Judge Nuesse, holds that "a railroad section crew must assume the danger incident to the duties but that 'while a railroad section crew, one of whose duties is to patrol the tracks in time of storm, assumes the risks ordinarily incident to the performance of that duty, they do so, risks which might be obviated by the exercise of reasonable care on the part of the railroad,' and that 'it is the duty of a master to warn his servants of any unusual or extraordinary danger which may arise by reason of their carrying out his instructions and of which they are unaware.'"

The court held that the record did not show a failure on the part of the railroad company to exercise reasonable care under the circumstances as disclosed. The decision was by Justice Nuesse and Chief Justice Bronson dissented.

$1,500,000 IS UTAH DAMAGE

Ruin and Desolation Spread Over Valleys

Salt Lake, Aug. 15.—Ruin and desolation today marked the path of the flood which swept over thousands of acres of land in northern Utah Monday night when the flood gates of the altitudinal Wasatch range loosed great torrents down upon the numerous farm settlements and communities nestled along the border of the mountains.

Ten persons were known to have perished and the towns of Farmington and Willard were partially devastated, the total property damage exceeding $1,500,000, according to estimates.

Search for nearly a score of persons reported missing since the flood struck was continued by national guardsmen.

OLDEST PART OF CAPITOL TO BE PAINTED

The oldest part of the state capitol building is to feel the touch of a painter's brush for the first time since it was built forty years or so ago. The state board of administration has decided to have the window sashes and metal strips on the building painted, to prevent further deterioration.

William Laist, custodian, is authority for the statement that paint has not been used on it since it was built.

Board of Equalization for

Burleigh county's budget for the ensuing year has been fixed by the county board of commissioners at $232,427.00, exclusive of interest and sinking funds, which will be reduced from the contemplated figure because the board contracted for the sale of bonds at a figure less than was anticipated.

The budget is higher than last year, it being about $200,000 in 1922. The budget last year did not prove adequate, it is stated by county officials. There is a shortage on the levy, not actually determined as yet, but which may result in county officials and employees not being paid on September 1. The board had advertised the sale of certificates of indebtedness on September 4, and if they are sold salaries will be met.

The tax levy will not be fixed until the state board of equalization has acted upon the county board's figures, and deductions provided by law are made. No estimate can be made by County Auditor Johnson as to how the mill levy will compare with last year, at this time.

M'LEAN COUNTY YOUTH SLAIN IN BUNK HOUSE AT RUSSO WITH AN AX; ROBBERY IS HELD TO BE THE MOTIVE

Washburn, N. D., Aug. 15.—Paul Sundbakken, 22, was slain with an ax yesterday in a bunk house in the freight yards at Russo, a small town in the extreme northern part of McLean county, according to word received at the sheriff's office here today.

Sundbakken, who was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Sundbakken of Russo, evidently had been killed with robbery as a motive, for $10 he had the night before was missing when his body was found Tuesday noon.

No clues whatever have been developed in the case. William Schmidt, village marshal, said this afternoon. The apparent motive, officers said, was robbery. No money was found on the dead man's person when a search was made although a cheap watch remained in one of his pockets.

Apparently Sundbakken had been beaten to death with the blunt side of an ax without being able to offer resistance, the village marshal said. Indications were that six blows had been struck. His head was resting on a pillow on the floor. The remainder of the body was in the bunk with the exception of one of the legs which hung over the side of the improvised bed and touched the wall.

GAS "WAR" IS JUST STARTED, IS ASSERTION
Chicago, Aug. 15.—While rejoicing motorists in many states today laid in supplies of gasoline at prices lower than 20 cents investigations designed to secure reductions in prices were under way in states not yet affected by price reductions.

Eastern states today joined the Midwest and southern sections with announced reductions.

"The war has just begun," declared Governor W. H. McMaster of South Dakota, whose orders to state highway depots in South Dakota to sell gasoline at 16 cents a gallon precipitated action by the Standard Oil Company of Indiana to reduce prices. The South Dakota executive said "the war" would continue until gasoline is permanently retailed at a reasonable price.

NOTED LEADER TAKEN WHILE AT MEETING

HELD IN BARRACKS

De Valera Had Made Good
Promise to Appear at Meeting of Republicans

(By the Associated Press)

Ennis, Ireland, Aug. 15.—Eamonn DeValera, the Republican leader was arrested by Free State troops on his appearance at a Republican meeting.

The arrest was made under sensational circumstances. DeValera was addressing a meeting of electors in the Market Square when Free State troops came to the scene and fired several volleys over the head of the crowd.

A stampede occurred and several arrests were made. The troops then surrounded the platform and took the leader into custody.

When DeValera appeared on the scene there were many thousands of people around the platform and he was given a tumultuous welcome.

A voice was heard to shout, "the soldiers are coming" and immediately a large body of the military with armed cars surrounded the platform. The crowd stampeded in all directions. The soldiers fired volley after volley over the platform. The great gathering became more panic stricken as shots were fired. Women shrieked and fainted and some of them were seriously injured in the confusion. It was reported a number of people were wounded.

Vacation For Coolidge Ended

Washington, Aug. 15.—Requirements of the presidency at the present juncture are so great that President Coolidge does not expect to leave Washington this summer or fall. The president's vacation is interrupted by the death of President Harding, he recognizes, it was said yesterday, that there are many details of the office with which he is unfamiliar. The quickest way to become acquainted with them, he feels, is by staying here.

It was added that Mr. Coolidge has no intention of making any speaking trips within the next few months.

Secretary To Coolidge Chosen

Washington, Aug. 15.—Former Representative C. Bascom Slemph of Virginia has been tendered and has accepted the position of secretary to President Coolidge.

Announcement of Mr. Slemph's appointment was made at the White House shortly after he had concluded an hour and a half conference with Mr. Coolidge. Mr. Slemph will not be able to close up his personal affairs and take permanent charge of his office until after Labor day and meantime Geo. B. Christian, Jr., secretary to the late President Harding, will remain as presidential secretary.

The appointment of Mr. Slemph came as a surprise, inasmuch as his name had not been mentioned in connection with the secretarialship.

URGE STRONG AIR FORCES IN PANAMA

Recommended in Official Critique After Observing Spring Maneuvers

"ENEMY" SIEZED BASE Experiments with Submarine and Air Crafts Show Possibilities

Washington, Aug. 14.—Various means of strengthening the defenses of the Panama Canal are suggested in an official Navy Department critique, prepared as a result of a study of last spring's maneuvers in Panama Bay.

The weaknesses of the present canal fortifications, the memorandum said, include the improper grouping of defense artillery, the lack of a sufficient air force in the Canal Zone, and the susceptibility of certain vital parts of the waterway to air bombs. It is suggested also that the defending fleet should be balanced by the addition of scout cruisers, and that a study should be made of the possibility of obtaining treaty rights to establish aircraft bases at certain unnamed points on foreign soil nearby.

In the spring maneuvers, the "enemy" fleet from across the Pacific discarded any plan to attack the canal directly, but succeeded in seizing a base at Port Culebra, Costa Rica, from which it was in a position to send out an air fleet against the little strip of United States territory.

"In drawing up their estimates," says the critique, "both commanders considered the possibility of blocking the canal by an attack in force on the Pacific side defenses and locks. Blue (the United States defense fleet commander) rejected this idea as impracticable on the part of Black (the enemy fleet commander) because the heavy fortifications would keep his ships at bay and even should he reduce these which is unlikely he would still have, in all probability, a mine field, a submarine entrance guard, and an air attack to overcome."

"Black rejected this course because, to destroy the closest locks by bombardment, or by torpedoes, ships would first have to destroy the enemy sea forces, run the gauntlet of the mines and submarines in Panama Bay and even after this were done, shore batteries would still keep our forces at a range of 36,000 yards at which distance destruction of the locks by bombardment is hardly possible."

"Both the Black and Blue Commanders estimated that the best chance for Black to accomplish his mission was to bomb the vital parts by means of airplanes."

This situation, coupled with other facts developed during the maneuvers, led the naval experts to reach definite conclusions as to the future needs of national defense in that quarter. The official critique concludes as follows:

"Some of the benefits to be gained from this problem can be summarized in certain conclusions as follows:

"There are certain well defined weaknesses in the Panama Canal defenses—these are:

"Susceptibility of certain vital parts to damage by bombs carried by aircraft."

"Grouping of the coast defense artillery too close together to prevent attacking vessels which have once gained control of the sea and air from reaching positions that will permit firing on the Miraflores locks."

"Lack of sufficient aircraft in canal defenses to insure immunity from attack by enemy bombers should a base be obtained within striking distance."

"The necessity for more complete liaison between the army and navy forces, especially in communications, information concerning enemy forces, and means for recognizing same."

"The necessity for dissemination of information to our own forces. Where information is necessary or desirable in order that our own forces may act intelligently this information must be disseminated even at the risk of enemy obtaining it."

"The need for improving our fleet communications, both radio and visual."

"The necessity for balancing our fleet by the addition of:

"(a) Scout cruisers.

"(b) Destroyer leaders.

"The necessity for having a sustained speed of at least twelve knots for:

"(a) Fleet submarines.

"(b) All auxiliaries that will accompany the fleet."

"The necessity for more maneuvers of this nature for fleet training."

"The necessity of denying to any possible enemy a base within aircraft striking distance of the canal."

"The desirability of studying the question of establishing by suitable treaties, aircraft bases at points within striking distance of the canal."

"The necessity for looking ahead as to the probable and possible developments in submarines and aircraft. The performance of our eighteen seaplanes in making the long trip from Hampton Roads to the canal zone and then two days after arrival, all of them being on the scouting line looking for the enemy, and the performance of our submarines in making the 3,000 mile trip from San Diego to the canal zone involving nearly three weeks at sea, shows the possibility of a future enemy, no matter who it might be, being able to bring to our shores both air forces and submarine forces from distances heretofore considered impossible."

practicable and the necessity for the further development of our own air and submarine forces, in order that we may adequately defend our coast and preserve the integrity of the Panama Canal, the keeping of which in operating order is a vital importance to the country."

MAKE STUDY OF CHILDREN

Chicago Clinic Begins Investigations of Reason For Unruly Youth

Chicago, Aug. 14.—A clinic for unruly children, second of its kind in the world, is to be established at Rush Medical College here, according to Dr. C. G. Grullie, head of the children's department of the school.

"There is too much mother in the modern family," declared Dr. Grullie. "That is the reason unruly children in American homes are more numerous than ever before. In former days families were large. Nowadays when we have one and two children in a family, the youngsters get too much attention. They become self-centered and consequently unruly. Only the only child! He is the product of modern civilization, and he is a social and medical problem."

The new clinic at Rush will specialize in neurotic children between the ages of three and 14.

Nurses and physicians of the new dispensary will investigate home conditions first. In a majority of cases, they say, the trouble is not with the child but with the home. Nine times out of ten he has developed an exaggerated ego. He has been petted too much.

COOLIDGE IN FIRST CABINET MEETING TODAY

President Presides at Head of Table Where Formerly He Was At Foot

MAY CHANGE POLICY

Coal Situation Is Likely To Result in New Action by The President

Washington, Aug. 14.—President Coolidge today presided over his first cabinet meeting, taking his place at the head of the big cabinet table at the foot of which he had sat since the beginning of the Harding administration.

All those who had served as counselors to the Harding administration except Secretaries Mellon and Denby sat with the new executive. Mr. Mellon is in Europe and Mr. Denby in Michigan.

Secretary Davis, who returned yesterday from Europe, called at the executive office prior to the cabinet session to pay his respects to the new chief.

Many problems incident to the change in administration leadership and policies needing immediate formulation, including the anthracite situation, were understood to be up for discussion. It was indicated important changes in policy might result.

BISMARCK MEN RETURN FROM PRICE MEETING

Resolutions Adopted at Minot Call For Special Session of Congress

C. G. Boise, Judge Grace and John N. Hays were among the Bismarck people attending the Wheat Price Conference held in Minot Sunday. Mr. Boise was made secretary of the meeting.

Demands for an immediate special session of congress to consider means of agricultural relief, were made in resolutions adopted at a mass meeting attended by 1,400 farmers and 500 business men. The resolutions presented for approval were the same as those adopted at the recent Fargo statewide conference of farmers and businessmen. Copies of the resolutions will be forwarded to Pres. Coolidge.

Halvorson of Minot, chairman of the state executive committee, appointed at the Fargo conference, was chairman of the mass session, and explained the reasons why he thought a special session of congress should be convened at this time by President Coolidge.

Answering a question from the audience as to whether the United States Grain corporation, one of the organizations advanced as a solution of the present agricultural crisis, could not be revived without congressional action, Mr. Halvorson said that it could not be, so far as he knew.

Indicative of the wide scope which the movement to have the president call a special session of congress is taking, is the telegram received by Mr. Halvorson soon after the meeting yesterday, from officials of the Equity Co-operative exchange at Fargo, announcing that it is urging its 20,000 stockholders to get behind their congressmen and senators in asking the president to call an extraordinary session of congress to save this year's crop.

Speakers included State Senator Baker, J. L. Page, president of the bankers' association of Bottineau county, John N. Hagen and Senator Page of Benson county.

Mr. Halvorson urged that contributions be sent in by commercial organizations to H. E. Epler, secretary of the Farm Bureau Federation, at Fargo to pay expenses of delegates to Washington to carry petitions and make the representation for a special session.

OPTOMETRISTS IN SESSION

Discuss National Eyesight
Conservation Week at
Fargo

Fargo, Aug. 15.—Members of the North Dakota Optometric association in their 21st annual meeting, in session at the commercial club yesterday, discussed the larger aspects of their profession as related to the general public.

Optometrists should do all possible to aid in remedying eyesight defects in their communities and should cooperate with the Parent Teachers associations in work done for school children, R. P. Merritt of Kenmare told the meeting.

The association should have a code of ethics to govern members in their relations toward the general public, their brother practitioners and their brethren in other lines of healing, L. J. Anderson, secretary, Grand Forks, declared.

Urges Eyesight Week.
He also urged the adoption of an annual eyesight conservation week in the state. During this time the attention of the public generally could be called to the remedying of eye defects, he said, but work for the children would be the special aim.

Optometrists in many towns of the state have been giving their services to examine school children's eyes but special eyesight work would make it more definite and call attention to it, he said.

R. E. Bonham of Bismarck, second vice president, and A. E. Anderson of Towner, treasurer, were other out of town members who were in attendance at the meeting which will continue through today. A. E. Cannon, vice president, the only other officer, is a Fargo man.

Educational Topic.

Today is to be given over to educational work. Dr. Charles Sheard, Southbridge, Mass., editor of the Journal of Physiological Optics gave a talk on "Tests I Always Make in an Eye Examination" at 9 a. m. The rest of the forenoon was given over to questions and discussions. Dr. Sheard gave a lecture at 1:30 p. m. with more questions and discussions. The meeting will close with disposition of unfinished business.

Committees appointed were:

Silent Premier Spends Days Writing

Paris, Aug. 15.—Premier Poincare uses up more pens in a week than did his predecessor, Briand, in a year, a keen observer of the French foreign office said recently. The reason is that Poincare speaks little, but writes much. Briand always had a pen in his hand; Poincare always has a pen.

The present premier receives very few callers, and except for Count Peretti de la Rocca, director at the ministry, and his chief of cabinet, M. Hermette, Poincare sees hardly any one. He remains at his desk throughout long days—often 12 to 14 hours—writing. There is not a single document coming out of the ministry of foreign affairs, whether they be grave and solemn instructions to ambassadors or minor matters of routine business, that the premier does not see personally, and often times corrects or amplifies in his own hand.

His famous speech delivered at Senlis July 15, written entirely in that crisp handwriting which is peculiar to the premier of France, went to the government printers without a single correction or erasure.

Price Fixing of Grain Fails

Bucharest, Aug. 15.—Rumania is facing an exceptional problem in dealing with the high cost of living, which is unusual in an agricultural country, amply capable of supplying its own people and exporting large amounts of foodstuffs.

It was hoped to solve this problem by two legislative measures, one fixing the prices of food products, and the other forbidding exports, by means of high duties which practically made exports impossible.

It is now announced by M. Garofid, former minister of agriculture, that the fixing of prices and the discouragement of exports have resulted in a more serious situation than existed before these measures were applied.

"Both the price-fixing and the practical prohibition of exports of food supplies needed at home have discouraged production to a notable extent," says the former minister of agriculture. "Rumania, formerly one of the world's wheat markets, has become a negligible quantity in wheat exportation. In addition, the amount of wheat available for home consumption has been diminished because of the fact that the prices fixed were, in some instances, less than the prices that would have afforded a reasonable margin of profit to producers."

New legislation is about to be submitted to parliament to deal with the admittedly grave question.

COOLIDGE OWN BOSS, SCIENTIST FINDS BY PHRENOLOGY

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE'S PHRENOLOGICAL DIAGRAM

By NEA Service

New York, Aug. 15.—A scientific analysis of President Coolidge has been made by Jessie Allen Fowler, noted phrenologist, who has traced and named the qualities which she says are proof of the power he is destined to show in the White House.

Miss Fowler, for many years noted as a lecturer, writer and editor, has prepared a diagram and the following article especially for NEA Service:

Vice President, American Institute of Phrenology; Editor-in-Chief, Phrenological Journal; Author, "Practical Physiognomy," etc.

The country is particularly fortunate in having a man of the ability, courage and foresight possessed by Calvin Coolidge to take up the duties thrust upon him so suddenly, of president of the United States.

He has the mental-motive type of temperament, which makes him a student, thinker and planner rather than an ease-loving man. He is quite original, preferring to work out his own ideas rather than those of others, when he believes that, as they have heard his logical arguments. He is no trifler, but is serious, and he means what he says as well as says what he means.

His head is exceptionally high, which gives him a keen conscientious spirit and inclines him to see the dark himself and expect others to do the same. He is a law-abiding man and he sees no reason why others should not be law-abiding, too. Breadth of head over the ears gives him force to push a principle to its conclusion.

This is well as he can hold his own counsel and reserve his opinions until the right time comes to express them.

Eyes keenly intellectual show that he will allow himself to consider a subject from a purely thoughtful viewpoint rather than from an emotional one.

His posterior lobe is large, and he loves his home, his family, his country and his friends tenaciously. Hence he ought to be a wise guide and counsellor in all public matters as an executive officer, for a government is like a large family.

Though he is a man of few words, those words are always well chosen. His speech of acceptance contained 40 words, but those 40 words expressed all he needed to say.

He is a humanitarian and illumines his work in a practical and some-thing like a spiritual way, for he looks all round a subject before he ventures an opinion.

North Dakota Corn and Wheat Region Summary

For the week ending August 14, 1923.

The weather during the week was generally favorable for harvesting and threshing. Spring wheat harvesting is well advanced and some threshing has been done, but yields are generally disappointing. Oats, barley and speltz are being harvested with fair to good yields. Corn is excellent, some early planted is beginning to dent. The flax harvest is progressing with evidence of good yields, especially the early planted. Pastures, ranges and meadows are in good condition, but rain is needed in some sections.

An instructive book has been published by Dr. A. S. McCleary, the noted rectal specialist of Kansas City. This book tells how sufferers from Piles can be quickly and easily cured without the use of knife, scissors, "hot" iron, electricity or any other cutting or burning method, without confinement to bed and no hospital bills to pay. The method has been successful for twenty-four years and in more than eight thousand cases. NEED BILLIONS FOR FARMS

American Farms in Run Down
Condition—Need Capital

Washington, Aug. 15.—American agriculture, which has been turning out a capacity product with its physical equipment in a run-down condition, must within the next ten years save up and reinvest in the farm plant from $8,000,000,000 to $10,000,000,000 of new capital, according to economists of the Department of Agriculture, who say this is a conservative estimate.

"For three years farmers have patiently patched, mended, repaired and used makeshifts," an official report says. "Sometime in the coming decade the farm must have about the same replenishment and renewal of productive plant that the railroads are now going through. Before 1933, three-fourths of the farm buildings will require new roofs and new paint. Probably a half-million new houses, barns and auxiliary buildings will have to be built. Half the present mileage of fencing will have to be replaced and much new fence put up. Millions of tons of new piping, wiring, barn equipment and small tools; millions of new gas engines and stationary power appliances; millions of feet of lumber and tons of cement must all be bought. Millions of tons of fertilizer and lime must be poured into the soil of the East and South to restore pre-war fertility. The country's work horses are old and before 1933 almost a new crop must be raised.

"The men who control great capital resources must realize agriculture's real and unusual need for new capital, and they must realize that farming in this country is still a basic industry—an industry with a future that will pay ample returns on every dollar wisely invested. One of the rural community's very serious problems during the next five or ten years will be debt."

Thin lips betoken the fact that he can hold his own counsel and reserve his opinions until the right time comes to express them.

Eyes keenly intellectual show that he will allow himself to consider a subject from a purely thoughtful viewpoint rather than from an emotional one.

His posterior lobe is large, and he loves his home, his family, his country and his friends tenaciously. Hence he ought to be a wise guide and counsellor in all public matters as an executive officer, for a government is like a large family.

MANDAN NEWS

Will Invite Eastern
Farmers to Morton Co.

Plans to advertise Morton county by exhibits of grain and hay in Wisconsin, Illinois and Iowa were formally launched at a meeting of representatives from different communities in Morton county held in the Mandan Commercial club room Monday.

The work of securing samples of the best grain, corn, alfalfa, sweet clover, vegetables, pictures of the consociated schools in the county, churches, beautiful drives, scenic spots, and everything that would appeal to a settler who might be looking for a location will begin immediately.

When the exhibit is gathered it will be sent to selected fairs in the three states above designated in charge of County Agent Hise.

It is thought that in this way farmers in those states who are reported to pay fifteen and twenty dollars an acre will be sufficiently interested in the cheap land of North Dakota to investigate, and probably try farming.

Misses Celia and Florence Connolly returned Monday from Detroit, Minn., where they visited with friends for two weeks.

Mrs. Earl Ritchie and children left last night for Duluth to visit with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Tavis have rented their home to Mr. and Mrs. William Baucknecht. Mr. and Mrs. Tavis are planning on going to California for the winter. Until their departure they will make their home with Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Tavis.

Mr. and Mrs. Matt Beyer of Selldridge are moving into the Nick Ressler home on First Ave. N. E. Mrs. Ressler and children plan to leave for San Francisco, Calif., in the near future.

Eugene Burdick left last night for Butte, Mont., where he will visit for a few days at the home of his uncle, C. E. Edquist. From there he will continue his trip west returning in time to enter the fall term of school.

Mrs. J. D. Simonds returned this week from a three weeks' visit at Ferndale and Bellingham, Wash. At Ferndale she was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Johnston, former residents of Mandan.

Mrs. T. Rotnam returned home from Chicago and other eastern points where she has been visiting for the last four weeks.

Mr. A. B. Welch left last night for Wapeton to attend to the convention of the American Legion.

Big In Size and Service

THE greatest achievements throughout the ages have been those discoveries and inventions which have made it possible for men to do the work of the world better and at the same time gain the leisure needed to develop their own powers.

No single class of achievements has done more to overcome the obstacles which confronted mankind in his climb toward better things than those which are grouped about the discovery of petroleum. From this source he first secured cheap and abundant light, lubricants and power.

The discovery of kerosene gave him a clear, dependable light which made systematic night study possible.

The development of unnumbered lubricants made the operation of the countless machines which serve the world practical.

The refining of gasoline made the internal combustion automotive engine practicable.

In the development of these helps, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has been a leader.

For years it has maintained, at its refineries, research laboratories and testing stations where men were constantly at work finding new uses for petroleum, and as the discoveries have been proved of practical worth they have been given to the world.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has done more than develop a large number of products and manufacture them in quantities. It has priced them at reasonable figures and has organized a comprehensive system of distribution which makes it possible for any man in the ten Middle Western States served by the Company to get what he wants quickly and easily.

Of these achievements the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is justly proud—particularly so, as the public has paid no premium for the enjoyment of these comforts.

In contradistinction, every additional product that this Company is able to take from petroleum bears its just proportion of the total manufacturing expense and tends to keep down the manufacturing cost and the selling price of all petroleum products.

Thus do the activities of a big organization, founded and operated on the principles of equity, fairness and justice, accrue to the benefit of the public for the common good.

SENTIMENT OF LEAGUERS IS FOR MEETING

Chairman Church Says He Is Calling State Convention After Ascertaining This

BISMARCK IS CHOSEN

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 15.—Call for a nonpartisan league convention to meet Oct. 10 at Bismarck was issued by W. J. Church, chairman of the state executive committee, from the state headquarters in Fargo.

Delegates entitled to sit in the convention will be those who took part in the convention March, 1922, in Fargo, and in later conventions that summer in Jamestown and early this year in Bismarck.

The call mentions among the subjects which may be discussed at the convention:

Changing the name of the league to the Farmer-Labor party.

Entire separation from the National Nonpartisan league at Minneapolis, as far as dues are concerned.

Designation of a monthly paper as the official paper by the state executive committee.

Delegates will be those elected to the convention in March 1922, held in Fargo.

Establishment of a daily newspaper as advocated by U. S. Sen. Lynn J. Frazier and others.

Delegates are urged to consult with their constituents to get the prevailing sentiment in regard to these and other topics.

Demand for a convention was voiced by an insurrection group in Valley City and by a meeting in Minot Sunday.

The call issued meets part of the ultimatum of the Valley City group that "unless a convention is called by Aug. 15 for October, they will bolt and form a new party," but does not meet the requirements that such convention be made up of delegates chosen at county conventions which shall be composed of representatives elected in precincts and that such convention be held in Valley City.

The call explains that calls were not issued previously because "your state executive committee has been criticized by some for calling two previous state conventions."

and from our experience gained from the last one perhaps justly so."

The official call, issued by Mr. Church at his home at York, through the state headquarters here, follows:

Official Call

"To fellow members of the Nonpartisan League:

"There have been two mass meetings held in the state, one at Valley City and one at Minot, at both of which a call was made that a state convention be called by the state executive committee to settle certain matters which were left a little vague, and to bring about a more united spirit.

"Your state executive committee has been criticized by some for calling two previous state conventions—in July, 1922 and in March, 1923 and from our experience gained from the last one perhaps justly so."

"Your chairman has endeavored to get the general sentiment regarding another convention, and through correspondence finds the other four members of the state executive committee, evenly divided, two favoring and two opposing a state convention, but in view of the fact that in every case where I wrote League members outside the committee, the sentiment favored a state convention I have cast the deciding vote in favor of a convention, in deference both to the sentiment expressed at the two meetings held and individual demands for a convention.

"The convention is therefore, and hereby called to be held on Wednesday, October 10 at 9 a. m. at Bismarck, N. D. The date is set early so that delegates can drive from the various counties by auto much cheaper than by train, especially if they all come in one auto, or two, and the item of expense will be a great factor in determining how many delegates are present. Hence I would urge all delegates from the various counties to get together and make the trip in one or two cars, thus keeping the expense at a minimum.

Is Capital Point

"The convention is called at Bismarck for the reason that it is more centrally located than any other large city, and it would be an injustice to the large body of Leaguers in the western part of the state to ask them to come clear across the state if we are not willing to go half way across.

"I would urge every delegate to earnestly try and get the true sentiment of League members regarding the numerous things that are being discussed relative to the conduct of the League, which will come up for action at the convention, among which might be mentioned: Changing the name of the League to the Farmer-Labor party; entire separation from the National Nonpartisan League at Minneapolis, as far as dues are concerned; designation of the North Dakota Leader as the official paper by your state executive committee; the establishment of a daily newspaper as advocated by U. S. Senator Lynn J. Frazier and others.

"By consulting with your fellow members at home, you can attend the convention at Bismarck better prepared to voice their sentiments and we will probably be able to allay all friction, or at least let those responsible for it understand how the great mass of the League members in the state feel in the matter.

"The delegates will be the same as those elected for the 1922 state convention, excepting as disqualified or where they cannot attend in which case county executive committees will arrange for a full delegation. The list of delegates will be published in the North Dakota Leader for August 15.

"Yours for a full delegate body, and for a greater unity of spirit and

NO WOMAN TO BE PRESIDENT! That's Belief of First U. S. Mayress

MRS. SUSANNA M. SALTER

By Don P. Drohan
NEA Service Writer

Norman, Okla., Aug. 15.—Ye down-trodden men, fear not!

You'll always have a monopoly on the White House.

Women, of course, will continue to dwell there as "first ladies," running all the big social functions and entertaining the folks from back home. But they never will sit at the presidential desk.

That much you can take from America's first woman mayor, Mrs. Susanna M. Salter, now living here.

She was made town boss of Argonia, Kan., 36 years ago, just after the Kansas equal suffrage law became effective. And she didn't do a lick of campaigning. Fact is she didn't know she was a candidate until she started for the polls.

"There isn't a chance in the world of one of my sex ever being chosen president," she declares. "You know the conventions are dominated by men. And they always will be."

"But women will have their fling at practically every other office. Some of these days you'll see one sitting on the Supreme Court bench. I'm really surprised how they've climbed already."

"We've had a woman in the Senate. We have them in the House.

purpose, most sincerely, W. J. Church, chairman state executive committee."

Instructions have been issued to county executive committees regarding the state convention.

LOCAL PEOPLE SEE ACCIDENT AT DETROIT

E. V. Lahr who has been spending a vacation at the Minnesota lakes and visiting in Iowa was at Detroit at the time of the accident resulting in the death of Kenneth Miller.

Mr. Lahr was swimming in the lake when Kenneth came running down the pier, being called by others, tripped over the fish box, being thrown headlong into a shallow bit of water. When the youth came to the top, he was in the same position as when a swimmer is doing the "dead man's" float. Mr. Lahr said that he could tell by the look of fear on the face of his niece, Miss Dorothy Savage of Daugherty, Ia., who was sitting on the pier where the accident happened and by something in the position of Kenneth, that something was wrong.

He swam swiftly to the boy's side and carried him out of the water. Kenneth, he said, had been holding his breath, waiting for his arrival, for he was completely paralyzed from the neck down.

Because of a recent accident at Detroit where a man had broken his neck by diving into shallow water, Judge Miller and neighbors had arranged for a new spring board for They're filling other mighty important positions, too. In Ohio, for instance, Florence E. Allen is a judge in the state's highest tribunal of Justice.

"All are making good. They're performing their duties as efficiently as their masculine predecessors."

Mrs. Salter doesn't favor a woman's party. She does think, though, her sisters should band together to study political questions.

Argonia's first woman mayor attributes her election to "meddling by the saloon element." Two men put her name on the ballots, she says, just to teach the W. C. T. U. a lesson, because they figured she couldn't get more than a dozen votes. But she rode into office by a two-thirds majority.

"A woman, however, must not neglect her home for any public office," asserts Mrs. Salter. "They wanted me to run again, when my first term was nearly over, but I felt my job kept me away from my children too much."

Mrs. Salter was 27 when she was elected. She had four children then. Now she has eight.

Her husband, who died several years ago, was her sweetheart in college. He was a newspaper editor for many years.

BISMARCK TO BE ASKED TO OBSERVE WEEK

Upholding of the Constitution Is to be Urged in Many Organizations

BAR BODY PROPOSALS

Arrangements are being made for the celebration of Constitution Week in Bismarck, September 16-22. Benton Baker, member of the North Dakota council of the American Bar Association, has undertaken to urge and assist in programs for the observance of the week, and already several organizations have signified to him their intention of joining in the observance.

While a complete program has not yet been worked out by those in charge, preliminary plans that will assure of an excellent celebration are under way.

The subcommittee of the bar association is "to reestablish the constitution of the United States and the principles and ideals of our government in the minds and hearts of the people."

It is expected that the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Daughters of the American Revolution, Knights of Columbus, Boy Scouts, and a number of other active organizations in the city will cooperate in this movement which is nation wide.

In most places where observances have been held the churches hold special services emphasizing the significance of the day and the principles of the Constitution of the United States.

The week of celebration as outlined by the American Bar association begins Sunday Sept. 16 with sermons by the ministers of the city on the first amendment, followed with a development of the following subjects:

"The setting and inspiration of the United States Constitution; watchwords of the constitution; what the bill of rights in the constitution has meant to the American people and what it means today; the services of John Marshall in making our constitution the supreme law of the land; present dangers of the free institutions established by the constitution to uphold the constitution in his daily life and activities in the duty of each and every good citizen."

Each of the above subjects will be developed on the various days of the week of the observance, in many of the cities and towns of the United States.

HIGHWAY MEN ROB GARAGE

Devils Lake, N. D., Aug. 15.—Two holdup men, at the end of a long blue pistol, forced Martin Peterson, night mechanic at the C. O. Russell garage to open the cash register and escaped with $13.50 at 1:20 Monday morning.

Meets Governor Nestos in Fargo and Discusses Gasoline Price

Fargo, Aug. 15.—Assurances of a square deal for North Dakota in the matter of gasoline prices was made to Governor R. A. Nestos by F. E. Packard, representative of the Standard Oil company, in a conference held here today where the state executive committee on his way to Washington to attend the American Legion Department of North Dakota convention.

While the Governor expressed himself as pleased with the reduction made he declared he would continue his investigation of the situation and if he found an unreasonable profit being made he would take whatever steps he deemed advisable to reduce the price to a reasonable figure.

He assured the Standard Oil company representative that any complaint made by him would receive attention and he met by prompt action if the demands were unreasonable.

ACREAGE OF WHEAT TO BE CUT SHARPLY

Reports of Department of Agriculture Show Decrease Is Intended

Washington, Aug. 15.—A reduction of 15.5 percent or 7,177,000 acres in the acreage to be sown to winter wheat this fall is indicated by 25,000 reports from farmers gathered by the Department of Agriculture. If the reduction of 15.5 percent actually is made this year in the sown acreage from last year it would make a total sown acres of about 39,200,000 compared to 46,375,000 actually sown last fall, of which 39,750 acres were harvested and the rest abandoned.

The intended sowing of winter wheat this fall in the important winter wheat states given in percentage of acreage sown last year follows:

Pennsylvania 96; Ohio 86; Michigan 96; Indiana 83; Illinois

80; Missouri 75; Nebraska 76; Kansas 80; Texas 82; Oklahoma 78; Washington 106, all other states 92.

Reports on rye acreage indicate a reduction of 9 percent. The acreage sown last fall is estimated 5,234,000 and the reduction indicated would leave a total acreage to be sown this autumn of 4,759,000. The pre-war (1909 to 1918) annual acreage sown was 2,562,000 acres.

SENTIMENT OF LEAGUERS IS FOR MEETING

Chairman Church Says He Is Calling State Convention After Ascertaining This

BISMARCK IS CHOSEN

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 15.—Call for a nonpartisan league convention to meet Oct. 10 at Bismarck was issued by W. J. Church, chairman of the state executive committee, from the state headquarters in Fargo.

Delegates entitled to sit in the convention will be those who took part in the convention March, 1922, in Fargo, and in later conventions that summer in Jamestown and early this year in Bismarck.

The call mentions among the subjects which may be discussed at the convention:

Changing the name of the league to the Farmer-Labor party.

Entire separation from the National Nonpartisan league at Minneapolis, as far as dues are concerned.

Designation of a monthly paper as the official paper by the state executive committee.

Delegates will be those elected to the convention in March 1922, held in Fargo.

Establishment of a daily newspaper as advocated by U. S. Sen. Lynn J. Frazier and others.

Delegates are urged to consult with their constituents to get the prevailing sentiment in regard to these and other topics.

Demand for a convention was voiced by an insurrection group in Valley City and by a meeting in Minot Sunday.

The call issued meets part of the ultimatum of the Valley City group that "unless a convention is called by Aug. 15 for October, they will bolt and form a new party," but does not meet the requirements that such convention be made up of delegates chosen at county conventions which shall be composed of representatives elected in precincts and that such convention be held in Valley City.

The call explains that calls were not issued previously because "your state executive committee has been criticized by some for calling two previous state conventions—in July, 1922 and in March, 1923 and from our experience gained from the last one perhaps justly so."

The official call, issued by Mr. Church at his home at York, through the state headquarters here, follows:

Official Call

"To Fellow members of the Nonpartisan League:

"There have been two mass meetings held in the state, one at Valley City and one at Minot, at both of which a request was made that a state convention be called by the state executive committee to settle certain matters which were left a little vague, and to bring about a more united spirit.

"Your state executive committee has been criticized by some for calling two previous state conventions—in July, 1922 and in March, 1923 and from our experience gained from the last one perhaps justly so."

"Your chairman has endeavored to get the general sentiment regarding another convention, and through correspondence finds the other four members of the state executive committee, evenly divided, two favoring and two opposing a state convention, but in view of the fact that in every case where I wrote League members outside the committee, the sentiment favored a state convention I have called the deciding vote in favor of a convention, in deference both to the sentiment expressed at the two meetings held and individual demands for a convention.

"The convention is therefore, and hereby called to be held on Wednesday, October 10 at 9 a. m. at Bismarck, N. D. The date is set early so that delegates can drive from the various counties by auto much cheaper than by train, especially if they all come in one auto, or two, and the item of expense will be a great factor in determining how many delegates are present. Hence I would urge all delegates from the same county to get together and make the trip in one or two cars, thus keeping the expense at a minimum.

Is Central Point

"The convention is called at Bismarck for the reason that it is more centrally located than any other large city, and it would be an injustice to the large body of Leaguers in the western part of the state to ask them to come clear across the state if we are not willing to go half way across.

"I would urge every delegate to earnestly try and get the true sentiment of League members regarding the numerous things that are being discussed relative to the conduct of the League, which will come up for action at the convention, among which might be mentioned: Changing the name of the League to the Farmer-Labor party; entire separation from the National Nonpartisan League at Minneapolis, as far as dues are concerned; designation of the North Dakota Leader as the official paper by your state executive committee; the establishment of a daily newspaper as advocated by U. S. Senator Lynn J. Frazier and others.

"By consulting with your fellow members at home, you can attend the convention at Bismarck better prepared to voice their sentiments and we will probably be able to allay all friction, or at least let those responsible for it understand how the great mass of the League members in the state feel in the matter.

"The delegates will be the same as those elected for the 1922 state convention, excepting as disqualified or where they cannot attend in which case county executive committees will arrange for a full delegation. The list of delegates will be published in the North Dakota Leader for August 15.

"Yours for a full delegate body, and for a greater unity of spirit and

NO WOMAN TO BE PRESIDENT! That's Belief of First U. S. Mayoress

MRS. SUSANNA M. SALTER

By Don P. Drohan

NEA Service Writer

Norman, Okla., Aug. 15.—Ye down-trodden men, fear not!

You'll always have a monopoly on the White House.

Women, of course, will continue to dwell there as "first ladies," running all the big social functions and entertaining the folks from back home. But they never will sit at the presidential desk.

That much you can take from America's first woman mayor, Mrs. Susanna M. Salter, now living here.

She was made town boss of Argonia, Kas., 36 years ago, just after the Kansas equal suffrage law became effective. And she didn't do a lick of campaigning. Fact is she didn't know she was a candidate until she started for the polls.

"There isn't a chance in the world of one of my sex ever being chosen president," she declares. "You know the conventions are dominated by men. And they always will be."

Mr. Salter will have their fling at practically every other office. Some of these days you'll see one sitting on the Supreme Court bench. I'm really surprised how they've climbed already.

"We've had a woman in the Senate. We have them in the House."

purpose, most sincerely, W. J. Church, chairman state executive committee.

Instructions have been issued to county executive committees regarding the state convention.

LOCAL PEOPLE

SEE ACCIDENT AT DETROIT

AT DETROIT

E. V. Lahr who has been spending a vacation at the Minnesota lakes and visiting in Iowa was at Detroit at the time of the accident resulting in the death of Kenneth Miller.

Mr. Lahr was swimming in the lake when Kenneth came unning down the pier, being called by others, tripped over the fish box, being thrown headlong into a shallow bit of water. When the youth came to the top, he was in the same position as when a swimmer is doing the "dead man's" float. Mr. Lahr said that he could tell by the look of fear on the face of his niece, Miss Dorothy Savage of Daugherty, Ia., who was sitting on the pier where the accident happened and by something in the position of Kenneth, that something was wrong.

He swam swiftly to the boy's side and carried him out of the water. Kenneth, he said, had been holding his breath, waiting for his arrival, for he was completely paralyzed from the neck down.

Because of a recent accident at Detroit where a man had broken his neck by diving into shallow water, Judge Miller and neighbors had arranged for a new spring board for several boys, in seven feet of water so as to escape the danger. Kenneth and others were planning to go to it when he came along the dock and someone called to him to hurry.

OPTOMETRISTS IN SESSION

Discuss National Eyesight
Conservation Week at
Fargo

Fargo, Aug. 15.—Members of the North Dakota Optometric association in their 21st annual meeting, in session at the commercial club yesterday, discussed the larger aspects of their profession as related to the general public.

Optometrists should do all possible to aid in remedying eyesight defects in their communities and should cooperate with the Parent Teachers associations in work done for school children, R. P. Merritt of Kenmare told the meeting.

The association should have a code of ethics to govern its members in their relations toward the general public, their brother practitioners and their brethren in other lines of healing, L. J. Anderson, secretary, Grand Forks, declared.

Urges Eyesight Week.

He also urged the adoption of an annual eyesight conservation week in the state. During this time the attention of the public generally could be called to the remedying of eye defects, he said, but work for the children would be the special aim. Optometrists in many towns of the state have been giving their services to examine school children's eyes but make it more definite and call attention to it, he said.

R. E. Bonham of Bismarck, second vice president, and A. E. Anderson of Fargo, secretary, were other out of town guests who were in attendance at the meeting which will continue through today. A. E. Cannon, vice president, the only other officer, is a Fargo man.

Education Is Topic.

Today is to be given over to educational work. Dr. Charles Sheard, Southbridge, Mass., editor of the Journal of Physiological Optics gave a talk on "Tests I Always Make in an Eye Examination" at 9 a. m. The rest of the forenoon was given over to questions and discussions. Dr. Sheard gave a lecture at 1:30 p. m. with more questions and discussions. The meeting will close with disposition of unfinished business.

Committees appointed were:

Resolutions—H. Kornmesser, Bismarck; A. E. Anderson, Fargo; L. J. Anderson, Grand Forks. Nominations—R. E. Bonham, Bismarck; A. E. Anderson, Towner; D. D. Sullivan, Fargo. Auditing—A. S. Anderson, Fessenden; G. R. Peterson, Fargo; Robert McLoughlin, Hope.

Silent Premier Spends Days Writing

Paris, Aug. 15.—Premier Poincare uses up more pens in a week than did his predecessor, Briand, in a year, a keen observer of the French foreign office said recently. The reason is that Poincare speaks little, but writes much. Briand always had a pen in his hand; Poincare always has a pen.

The present premier receives very few callers, and except for Count Peretti de la Rocca, director at the ministry, and his chief of cabinet, M. Hermitte, Poincare sees hardly any one. He remains at his desk throughout long days—from 12 to 14 hours—writing. There is not a single document coming out of the ministry of foreign affairs, whether they be grave and solemn instructions to ambassadors or minor matters of routine business, that the premier does not see personally, and often times corrects or amplifies in his own hand.

His famous speech delivered at Senlis July 15, written entirely in that crisp handwriting which is peculiar to the premier of France, went to the government printers without a single correction or erasure.

Price Fixing of Grain Fails

Bucharest, Aug. 15.—Roumania is facing an exceptional problem in dealing with the high cost of living, which is unusual in an agricultural country, amply capable of supplying its own people and exporting large amounts of foodstuffs. It was hoped to solve this problem by two legislative measures, one fixing the prices of food products, and the other forbidding exports, by means of high duties which practically made exports impossible.

It is now announced by M. Garzofoli, former minister of agriculture, that the fixing of prices and the discouragement of exports have resulted in a more serious situation than existed before these measures were applied.

"Both the price-fixing and the practical prohibition of exports of food supplies needed at home have discouraged production to a notable extent," says the former minister of agriculture. "Roumania, formerly one of the world's wheat markets, has become a negligible quantity in wheat exportation. In addition, the amount of wheat available for home consumption has been diminished because of the fact that the prices fixed were, in some instances, less than the prices that would have afforded a reasonable margin of profit to producers."

New legislation is about to be submitted to parliament to deal with the admittedly grave question.

COOLIDGE OWN BOSS, SCIENTIST FINDS BY PHRENOLOGY

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE'S PHRENOLOGICAL DIAGRAM

By NEA Service
New York, Aug. 15.—A scientific analysis of President Coolidge has been made by Jessie Allen Fowler, noted phrenologist, who has traced and named the qualities which she says are proof of the power he is destined to show in the White House.

Miss Fowler, for many years noted as a lecturer, writer and editor, has prepared a diagram and the following article, especially for NEA Service:

By Jessie Allen Fowler
Vice President, American Institute of Phrenology; Editor-in-Chief, Phrenological Journal; Author, "Practical Phrenology," etc.

The country is particularly fortunate in having a man of the ability, courage and foresight possessed by Calvin Coolidge to take up the duties thrust upon him so suddenly, of president of the United States.

He has the mental-motive type of temperament, which makes him a student, thinker and planner rather than an ease-loving man. He is quite original, preferring to work out his own ideas rather than those of others, when he believes that he is right and others are wrong.

Sagacious and intuitive, he is able to understand people at first sight and ought to know how to handle large groups of men successfully. The police in Boston know that, as they have heard his logical arguments. He is no trifler, but is serious, and he means what he says as well as says what he means.

His head is exceptionally high, which gives him a keen conscientious spirit and inclines him to toe the mark himself and expect others to do the same. He is a law-abiding man and he sees no reason why others should not be law-abiding, too.

Breadth of head over the ear gives him force to push a principle to its conclusion.

Thin lips betoken the fact that he can hold his own counsel and reserve his opinions until the right time comes to express them.

Eyes keenly intellectual show that he will allow himself to consider subject from a purely thoughtful viewpoint rather than from an emotional one.

His posterior lobe is large, and he loves his home, his family, his country and his friends tenaciously.

Hence he ought to be a wise guide and counselor in all public matters as an executive officer, for a government is like a large family.

Though he is a man of few words, those words are always well chosen. His speech of acceptance contained 40 words, but those 40 words expressed all he needed to say.

He is a humanitarian and illumines his work in a practical, business-like and spiritual way, for he looks all round a subject before he ventures an opinion.

North Dakota, Corn and Wheat Region Summary

For the week ending August 14, 1929.

The weather during the week was generally favorable for harvesting and threshing. Spring wheat harvesting is well advanced and some threshing has been done, but yields are generally disappointing. Oats, barley and speltz are being harvested with fair to good yields. Corn is excellent, some early planted is beginning to dent. The flax harvest is progressing with evidence of good yields, especially the early planted. Pastures, ranges and meadows are in good condition, but rain is needed in some sections.

Piles Can Be Cured Without Surgery

An instructive book has been published by Dr. A. S. McCleary, the noted rectal specialist of Kansas City. This book tells how sufferers from Piles can be quickly and easily cured without the use of knife, scissors, "hot" iron, electricity or any other cutting or burning method, without confinement to bed and no hospital bills to pay. The method has been a success for twenty-four years and in more than eight thousand cases. The book is sent post paid free to persons afflicted with piles or other rectal troubles who clip this item and mail it with name and address to Dr. McCleary, D542 Parkway Sanitarium, Kansas City, Mo.

NEED BILLIONS FOR FARMS

American Farms in Run Down
Condition—Need Capital

Washington, Aug. 15.—American agriculture, which has been turning out a capacity product with its physical equipment in a run-down condition, must within the next ten years save up and reinvest in the farm plant from $3,000,000,000 to $10,000,000,000 of new capital, according to economists of the Department of Agriculture, who say this is a conservative estimate.

Three years farmers have patiently patched, mended, repaired and used makeshifts, "an official report says. "Sometime in the coming decade the farm must have about the same replenishment and renewal of productive plant that the railroads are now going through. Before 1933, therefore, the farm buildings will require new roofs and new paint. Probably a half-million new houses, barns and auxiliary buildings will have to be built. Half the present mileage of fencing will have to be replaced and much new fence put up. Millions of new tire must be laid. The haying and harvesting machinery will have to be replaced entirely; tillage machinery in large part; wagons, harnesses, etc., in part. Millions of new automobiles, tractors and trucks must be bought. Millions of tons of new piping, wiring, barn equipment and small tools; millions of new gas engines and stationary power appliances; millions of feet of lumber and tons of cement must all be bought. Millions of tons of fertilizer and lime must be poured into the soil of the East and South to restore pre-war fertility. The country's work horses are old and before 1933 almost a new crop must be raised.

"The man who control great capital resources must realize agriculture's real and unusual need for new capital; and they must realize that farming in this country is still a basic industry—an industry with a future that will, pay ample reward on every dollar wisely invested. One of the rural community's very serious problems during the next five or ten years will be debt."

MANDAN NEWS

Will Invite Eastern
Farmers to Morton Co.

Plans to advertise Morton county by exhibits of grain and hay in Wisconsin, Illinois and Iowa were formally launched at a meeting of representatives from different communities in Morton county held in the Mandan Commercial club room Monday.

The work of securing samples of the best grain, corn, alfalfa, sweet clover, vegetables, pictures of the consolidated schools in the county, churches, beautiful drives, scenic spots, and everything that would appeal to a settler who might be looking for a location will begin immediately.

When the exhibit is gathered it will be sent to selected fairs in the three states above designated in charge of County Agent Ise.

It is thought that in this way farmers in those states who are reported to pay fifteen and twenty dollars an acre will be sufficiently interested in the cheap land of North Dakota to investigate, and probably try farming.

Misses Celia and Florence Connolly returned Monday from Detroit, Minn., where they visited with friends for two weeks.

Mrs. Earl Ritchie and children left last night for Duluth to visit with relatives.

Big In Size and Service

THE greatest achievements throughout the ages have been those discoveries and inventions which have made it possible for men to do the work of the world better and at the same time gain the leisure needed to develop their own powers.

No single class of achievements has done more to overcome the obstacles which confronted mankind in his climb toward better things than those which are grouped about the discovery of petroleum. From this source he first secured cheap and abundant light, lubricants and power.

The discovery of kerosene gave him a clear, dependable light which made systematic night study possible.

The development of unnumbered lubricants made the operation of the countless machines which serve the world practical.

The refining of gasoline made the internal combustion automotive engine practicable.

In the development of these helps, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has been a leader.

For years it has maintained, at its refineries, research laboratories and testing stations where men were constantly at work finding new uses for petroleum, and as the discoveries have been proved of practical worth they have been given to the world.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has done more than develop a large number of products and manufacture them in quantities. It has priced them at reasonable figures and has organized a comprehensive system of distribution which makes it possible for any man in the ten Middle Western States served by the Company to get what he wants quickly and easily.

Of these achievements the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is justly proud—particularly so, as the public has paid no premium for the enjoyment of these comforts.

In contradistinction, every additional product that this Company is able to take from petroleum bears its just proportion of the total manufacturing expense and tends to keep down the manufacturing cost and the selling price of all petroleum products.

Thus do the activities of a big organization, founded and operated on the principles of equity, fairness and justice, accrue to the benefits of the public for the common good.

THE FATAL SHOT

You recall Gavrio Prinze, the boy-assassin whose bullet started trouble between Austria and Serbia in 1914 and thereby precipitated the World War.

Prof. Stanoyevitch of University of Belgrade publishes a pamphlet attributing leadership of the assassination plot to Dragutin Dimitriyevitch, lieutenant colonel and former leader of the Serbian military party.

At the last minute he apparently changed his mind and tried to call off the assassination, but the situation had gotten beyond his control. Curiously enough, he had the idea that impending warfare between Austria-Hungary and Serbia could be avoided by killing Archduke Ferdinand.

Dimitriyevitch was court-martialed and shot in 1917 in connection with another murder plot. He was about 30 years old when he departed this life.

Prof. Stanoyevitch's pamphlet is historically important, for he had access to "inside information." He seems sincerely convinced that the Serbian government did not know of the assassination plot.

Many people will comment: "The war had been brewing for generations, so it cannot be traced to any act of any one individual."

However, is that true? The Socialists were close to gaining the whip-hand in Europe when the war rushed them off their feet. And it is, at least, remotely possible that the war might have been avoided if a half-witted radical youth, spurred on by a moron militarist, hadn't loaded his pistol and set off the fireworks.

The world is making a terrible mistake if it inclines to attribute the great war to fate—that it was inevitable.

Yes, things might have been different—tremendously different—if the boy-assassin hadn't cut loose with his pistol.

It's too late now, of course, to unscramble the eggs. But the pistol of Gavrio Prinze should make us do a lot of serious thinking about the dangers of allowing pistols in general to get into the wrong hands.

There's a campaign gaining headway to stop the sale of revolvers except under police permit, especially by the mail order route. Back that campaign. It would partly disarm the criminal. Household could protect themselves with rifles or sawed-off shotguns—which cannot be carried by crooks without detection.

To stop murders by revolvers, take away the revolvers.

POISON FUMES

We live in an ocean of air, the same as fish live in an ocean of water. In the Air Ocean we are, to make a jovial comparison, like lobsters crawling along the bottom of the water ocean. Birds flit through the air like fish through the water.

The air we breathe is more vital in many ways than water we drink or food we eat. You can go weeks without food, days without water, before dying. But shut off your air supply and death comes in a matter of minutes. Close your mouth, pinch your nostrils tightly, and get the idea emphatically—what happens when your air supply is shut off.

Few of us would knowingly eat tainted food or drink impure water. We take great pains, and go to considerable expense, to insure the purity of food and water. But when it comes to the equally or even more important life-need, air, most of us are careless, negligent.

Impure air lessens our powers of resisting disease. The air in the average city is impure to a frightful extent, containing disease germs and fragments of filth, glass, rubber tires and similar destroyers of the delicate lung tissues.

Most deadly of all is the poison gas generated by the millions of autos, a gas so deadly that it kills in a few minutes if a man starts his auto engine in a garage with the doors shut.

Air in the natural state is pure. Man adds the impurities, most of them. When our lungs become weak, the doctor sends us to the pure air of the mountains.

Now, impure air of city life doesn't start all into a decline by any means. But unquestionably all would have better health if we could do our breathing in the right place.

The next best bet is to get as much fresh air as possible, especially by taking outdoor walks, breathing deeply, sleeping with windows open. The air outdoors may be impure, but it is purer than stale air that has been breathed over and over inside the house and thereby become loaded with poisons cast off by people's lungs.

Summer is fresh air season. Take a dozen long, deep breaths whenever you think of it.

WALES

The Prince of Wales plans to visit America again next autumn. He wants to travel incog, as a private individual, to get a line on us such as he was unable to get when he was here officially and was shown only what others wanted him to see.

Wise prince. Prominent Europeans visit us, are handled by the hokum dispensers, and depart with impressions of the hokum which they mistake for impressions of the real America. Delegations of Englishmen have been inspecting our prohibition. They go home and report what they were told by officials, what they observed at functions, when they'd have to go up an alley and give three knocks and the high sign to learn the truth.

IMMIGRANTS

Thirty million immigrants have entered the United States since 1880. Uncle Sam has checked up the 14 million of these who still are living. Five million are in the Upper Mississippi Valley, same number in Middle Atlantic states, two million in New England, one million in the south, 500,000 on the Pacific Coast. The strongholds of the native-born are in the west and southwest.

Editorial Review

AMERICA AND MINORITIES

The period when Turkey was always willing to make promises is over. It may return, but for the time being, Turkey is not making many promises. The result of this new spirit, as it manifests itself on the point of guarantees for Christian minorities in Turkey, is that the negotiations between Mr. Joseph P. Wilson for the United States and Ismet Pasha are held up while the State department decides whether or not this country cares to conclude a treaty with that country which omits all mention of the desired safeguards.

Exactly what the State department expects we cannot say. Most probably it only wants some kind of an expression from the Turkish government as to what the political course off a treaty with a power which is anathema to a strong section of the American public. Turkey, perhaps, naturally does not care to understand this necessity. The new Turkish government is strong and it has nationalistic emotions. It does not propose to admit the right of any nation to demand of it an expression which, in a sovereign state, lies within its own discretion, and pertains to a domestic question.

The United States can hardly expect to get from Turkey alone concessions which Great Britain, France, Italy and the United States could not get together. There can be no hope of obtaining a national home land for the Armenians. That was settled at Lausanne. The Greek question was also left in a conclusive, if not satisfactory, state. There is nothing to be hoped for there beyond the exchange of populations provided in the general treaty. In fact, on the broad question of minorities, the United States has nothing to claim except an innocuous and meaningless assurance, without which a treaty, if it is worth entering upon at all, loses nothing important.

Whether this question involves the rights of American missionaries and schools in Turkey is a point not clarified by the dispatches. These rights are of great importance, and certainly no treaty should be concluded at all if they are not to be upheld. But there is little in the question of the Christian minorities to complicate the rights of American educational agencies, and unless the contrary turns out to be the case, there is no point in talking at something which cannot be remedied.—St. Paul Dispatch.

WILL TAXPAYERS WELCOME GAS CUT?

The great state of South Dakota has gone into the oil business. After charging that the Standard Oil company was realizing nearly 100 per cent profit on its gas sales Governor McMaster last week ordered the state supply depot at Mitchell to sell gasoline for 16 cents per gallon. Pretty good for automobile and truck owners, but we doubt if the majority of the taxpayers will welcome the thought of having the deficit that is bound to accrue added to their tax burden.—Dickinson Press.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

"Anybody else lost?" asked the Twins when they had found George Rorgie Pee Wee and brought him back safely to Pee Wee Land under the woods.

"Well, I should say so!" answered King Snookums. "Jimmy Jumper went off riding on a grasshopper last night and hasn't been heard from since."

"Then we'll take our magic shoes and go and find him," said Nick. "Go on, Nancy."

So away they went. The stubble field where the grasshoppers loved to play. And they asked all the grasshoppers if anybody had seen Jimmy Jumper, the lost Pee Wee boy.

"Yes, I did!" cried Silly Springs, spitting tobacco juice on the ground beside him in his excitement. "He asked me to take him for a ride and I did. We had lots of fun jumping fences and playing leap-frog with the other grasshoppers, 'n' everything 'n' I came home."

Next the Twins came to the pasture lot where the cows were.

"Did you see Jimmy Jumper anywhere?" Nancy asked Bossie Cow, who was chewing and chewing at nothing at all while she lay under a tree.

Bossie Cow shook her head before she answered. "No, I haven't, but if you get this bug out of my ear I'll help you hunt. It crawled in there last night just after milking time and I can't get it out—no matter how I shake my head."

"Sure we'll help you," cried Nick. "Now hold us still as you can while I get my lightning-bug flashlight. There! That's the way. Oh, my goodness alive! Look who's here!"

No wonder he was surprised. For out crawled Jimmy Jumper Pee Wee right out of Bossie Cow's ear!

"Bossie was tired," he yawned. "That was the nicest, warmest, softest bed I've had for a coon's age!"

A WINNING HAND

LETTER FROM ALICE HAMILTON TO MRS. JOSEPH GRAVES HAMILTON

DEAR MOTHER:

Although I know you intended to be kind I think you should have told me of Leslie's accident the moment it occurred. As it was you let me go on for a long time feeling quite hurt because she had not written me. Now I am filled with remorse that I could have thought for a moment that my darling sister would have neglected me when I was so far away.

However, I think I had received a telegram, I should have taken the next boat home. It sickens me every time I think of the good times I have been having while all the time she has been so ill.

I want you to tell Leslie that I knew nothing about her accident and that if she wants me or if she thinks that I can do her the least bit of good I will come home immediately.

Poor girl! I believe I would die had I been expecting such a wonderful event in my life as a baby and then had to bear the disappointment of losing it before it had ever been laid in my arms.

Karl was awfully sweet in telling me all about it. We are still talking about you all. He said that you let him go in and look at Leslie for a moment while she was asleep, so that he could even tell me just how she looked. He told me she was "just like a Madonna who had been deprived of her only child by Death."

He told me that Jack was thinking of adopting a child. I think this would be a lovely thing. Let me know as soon as you decide, which way it is going to be and if you decide upon adoption, don't christen him until I come home. I want to be godmother.

Poor Leslie! I haven't been able to get her out of my mind all day. This being married, mother, isn't such a cinch after all, is it?

Someway up until now I have always considered marriage a kind of glorified courtship under the sanction of the church, but now I see there are a great many responsibilities and cares connected with it.

Karl told me that you thought he had better bring those pearl beads of Leslie's over here, but he dissuaded you from it. I wish you had let him bring them. I think they would go awfully well with my new pearl ring.

The ring of course is real, but everyone says that the beads are such a wonderful imitation that I'm sure they couldn't be told apart.

In one of her letters Leslie intimated that she was going to break the string in two and give part of it to Beatrice Grimshaw for a wedding present.

You may tell her that I will never forgive her if she does a thing like that. I wrote and told her how hurt I would be if she did it, but I want you to clinch the argument.

I didn't know that I would be as glad to see anyone as I was to see Karl. I wouldn't marry an Englishman if he were the Duke of Westminister or the Prince of Wales himself.

Please cable me exactly how Leslie is. Could she read a letter if I should write it to her?

I love you all so much, ALICE.

THE YELLOW SEVEN
A Game Of Chance

NEA Service, Inc. 1923

By Edmund Shell.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Captain John Hewitt is Commissioner of Police at Jesselton, British North Borneo, Monica Viney, Hewitt's widowed sister, is engaged to marry Peter Pennington, detective. Pennington is detailed by the government to apprehend Chai-Hung, leader of The Yellow Seven, a gang of Chinese bandits. Major Armitage comes to Jesselton and announces that he is sent on a very important mission. He explains that his business will keep him in Borneo for several days.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Armitage frowned. "You'll have to alter that, Hewitt. I should give him a week in which to improve and if by that time there's no sign of improvement—fire him right away."

"Then, catching the light in her brother's eye and scenting danger, chimed in quickly.

"Do you golf, Major Armitage?" "My dear Mrs. Viney, the man who carries out his duties thoroughly has no time for games. Which brings me back to my original subject. I want to get away as soon after lunch as possible, Hewitt. I shall need some bearers, a week's rations and a platoon or so of native infantry. I shall require also an interpreter with a thorough knowledge of Chinese, Malay and English."

"I see," said Hewitt. "Might I take the liberty of inquiring the nature of the expedition you propose making into my country—and why this tremendous haste?"

The major hesitated and looked at Monica, who had already risen from her chair.

"I'll see if I can hurry that boy," she said.

Major Armitage produced a cigar from an upper pocket of his tunic, bit off the end, and ignited it carefully.

Presently the preposterous circle of glass fixed itself upon Hewitt.

"Mrs. Viney mentioned the name of Pennington just now," he snapped. "I suppose this fellow's still on your strength, wasting government money and making an infernal hash of this Yellow Seven business?"

The Commissioner flushed.

"I'm afraid I must disagree with you," he said. "Chinese Pennington is one of the most efficient men it's ever been my luck to meet."

Armitage had a knack of hearing only those people who agreed with his views.

"I heard of this affair when I passed through Singapore. It didn't take me five minutes to see that the thing had been hopelessly bungled. The way that man was making out status in the East look ridiculous simply ate into my nerves. I could see for myself that it wanted a soldier at the head of affairs. I offered my services and the offer was accepted."

Captain John Hewitt gasped. "They've sent you out here to rout out Chai-Hung?"

"Those are my instructions," the Commissioner's hand had slipped suddenly across his mouth and his shoulders heaved convulsively.

"Sorry!" he apologized presently. "Bit of bacon went the wrong way. With a horse who's choked down the mirth that consumed him."

"So you're setting out this afternoon with, let's see, a week's rations, a platoon of native soldiers and some bearers. Oh, I was forgetting the interpreter. You'll scour the country, across the hills, and across the bandit and—I say, isn't a week's rations cutting it a trifle fine?"

"When you know me better," returned the other with dignity, "you'll understand that when I'm on a job—I go straight."

"That's extremely comforting!" I wondered if you quite realized that the area of Borneo is roughly 290,000 square miles!"

Major Armitage waved his cigar in the air.

"Naturally I'm relying on you to give me every possible assistance. I have a letter in my dispatch-case to that effect from Trevelyan. I shall want a pushing-off place, so to speak."

"Such as?"

"The exact spot where your pet bandit was last located. A list of his places of refuge would be of service and a rough memorandum as to his appearance, personal habits, etc."

"You can have a photograph, if you like, together with a copy of the circular I sent round to all white settlers in the district. It's a memorandum, by the way. Chai-Hung has lost his left hand during the last few days. This gentleman was once the most respected Chinaman on the island. He enjoyed liberties only extended to white people—and he would still be enjoying them except for the way he was shot."

"If it hadn't been for young Pennington Chai-Hung is a big, fat Oriental, speaking perfect English with a fairly guttural accent. He is unscrupulous, merciless and has a distinct aversion to Britishers. His sign is a yellow Chinese playing-card with seven black dots upon it and he dishes these out as a warning of death or an indication that the assassination of a victim was carried out by the Yellow Seven. With scarcely a single exception every Chinaman on the archipelago is in his brother's ruler, King Hussein of the Hedjaz, over the Holy Carpet. This does not mean that Fud has Hussein "on the carpet" for any cause. It simply means that the Egyptian monarch insists that a detachment of Egyptian doctors shall accompany the annual pilgrimage of the faithful with their Holy Carpet to Mecca. Hussein argues that the Hedjaz produces excellent doctors of his own and he desires no Egyptian imports. No settlement of the controversy is in sight, and King Hussein has appealed to Great Britain for a solution.

At the season of the annual pilgrimages to Mecca the Egyptian government habitually organizes a considerable medical detachment to assure the welfare of the pilgrims on their trying journey. This year the usual course was followed and the equivalent of the personnel of two field hospitals was enlisted. King Hussein, however, suddenly declared against the Egyptian physicians.

Egypt holds a high card in its hand in the dispute in the fact that the Holy Carpet, an indispensable feature in the Mecca ceremonies, resides in a Cairo mosque. The flat, therefore, has gone forth, "No doctors, no carpet!" The subject has aroused the whole of the Arab countries and has become the subject of formal diplomatic representations.

Whales measuring as much as 95 feet in length have been caught in the Antarctic.

League with Chai-Hung. It means that any undertaking against the bandit must be carried out with the utmost secrecy."

The other pressed the tips of his fingers together in front of him.

"All exceedingly interesting, Hewitt, but I must admit that I may say a little far-fetched. Reading between the lines, you're all scared to death of this Chai-Hung fellow because you have every new outrage fresh on your memory. You mentioned the area of Borneo just now. That has very little bearing on the present question, because more than half the place is under Dutch management and the Yellow Seven confine their activities to British North Borneo, the area of which—if considerable—is certainly not vast." He emitted a little, self-satisfied chuckle.

Five minutes later, when the major had retired to the spare-room, the head of Chinese Pennington was thrust through the office window followed almost immediately by that of Monica.

"Oh, I say, Jack, isn't it perfectly orrisious? Chai-Hung'll eat him—'ye-glassy swell'!"

"He won't," retorted the Commissioner, "because you're going with him!"

"Know any more jokes like that?" "I'm not joking. I'm deadly in earnest. Where d'you imagine I'm likely to discover an interpreter who speaks Chinese, Malay and English except among the Chinese population, and I've already explained to the gibbering idiot that no Chinaman's to be trusted. Ring up the barracks, there's a good chap, and get me on to Fyfe."

Monica caught her brother's sleeve.

"Are you really serious?" "Rather! I can't allow Armitage to make a fool of himself over Chai-Hung. Penn's got to act as guide, philosopher and friend to this already misguided lunatic. He's to change into suitable gear for the journey and gently lead this disciple of blood and iron into all those portions of the island where the bandit's least likely to be."

"Ye gods!" murmured Pennington. "Is this stunt going on indefinitely?"

"Until he gets so confoundedly fed-up with the entire concern that he decides to chuck his hand in. At any rate, he'll be back for rations within a week."

"Before we start," insisted the other. "We are just one or two points I'd like to mention. This Chinese interpreter of yours is going to be of the high-brow variety; not one of the sort, you understand, that squats round camp-fires with dirty beggars. He's entitled, moreover, to a tent of his own—and full rations." Hewitt grinned.

"I think I can manage that for you."

Chinese Pennington carried out instructions to the letter. It was no easy matter to avoid Chai-Hung's band of brigands, because a crowd such as Armitage insisted on taking with him could not fail to attract attention.

There were other difficulties that beset their troubled path through the stunted jungle-wastes, difficulties for which Armitage was directly responsible and which he treated with such fatuous unconcern that Pennington wanted to knock the offending monocle into the eye that it adorned. Together with his other faults—Major Lacy Armitage lacked grace. He was the exact opposite to that type of British officer men follow to the ends of the earth, taking the smooth with the rough of it, recognizing errors but still following, drawn on by their leader's personality and persistent optimism. One day, when the bearers began to drop out and on the morning of the fourth day it was apparent that two of the native soldiers had deserted. The bearers took their load of supplies with them—and the two defaulter were eventually tracked to a clearing where they lay aside by side, their throats cut from ear to ear, and the sign of the Yellow Seven pinned to their breasts.

It stands to Armitage's credit that he did not turn a hair. The discovery had, as a matter of fact, the effect of making him more determined than ever to that which Pennington had insisted on. He whetted the other's appetite and encouraged him to push forward, unmindful of the fact that he was already four days' march from his original base—with about two and a half days' rations still in hand.

"Well, get him yet, Sing-Ho," he declared. "I may not inform you, now we're on the subject, that up to this moment I'd regarded you as an unhelpful fraud."

The interpreter evinced considerable surprise.

"A fraud, tuun?" he echoed blankly.

"I'm not a man accustomed to making mistakes. It has been gradually dawning upon me that you were out to earn your money easily: You never intended to encounter this countryman of yours and you had fully made up your mind to profit by

HOLD LAST RITES TUESDAY

Chas. Crum, Pioneer of Burleigh, to be Laid to Rest in Illinois

Funeral services for Charles E. Crum, a pioneer of Burleigh county who passed away at his home three and a half miles northeast of McKensie at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday, Aug. 14 at the age of 65 after a long illness, will be held Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the McKensie Methodist church. The remains will be placed on the Northern Pacific train No. 4, east bound after the service and interment will take place at Virginia, Ill., in accordance with his wish to be laid to rest beside his parents.

Mr. Crum was born on a farm in Cass County, near Virginia, Illinois, June 30th, 1857. He received his education in a country school; The Protestant Methodist College, Adrian, Mich.; the Illinois State University, and graduated from the Jacksonville Business College and English Training School in 1877. He went to Nebraska in 1878 and engaged in farming and stock raising, and in the spring of 1882 went to Burleigh county, North Dakota, and worked in Bismarck one year at the Merchant Hotel, and in that year he located land in McKensie Township and in the spring of 1883 began operations thereon. His success was due to hard work and he came to occupy a prominent place as one of the most extensive farmers and stock raisers of Burleigh county.

In 1883 Mr. Crum returned to Illinois and was married to Miss F. Anna De Lapp, who has been his faithful helpmate and companion through the years and who has watched over him in his long illness almost constantly day and night.

He was a charter member of Sterling Lodge No. 71, I. O. O. F., a member of the Grand Lodge of North Dakota and a Rebekah. He was township treasurer of McKensie township for 16 years and always active in public matters, straightforward and honest in all dealings with his fellowmen, a man of generous impulses who never forgot the hospitable ways of the pioneer. How much this community owes him and such as he, it is impossible to estimate, though it would be a grateful task to trace his influence through some of the more direct channels and to hold him up in his sterling character as husband and father.

During his long illness through which he suffered severely he was patient and uncomplaining, bearing up bravely and with a sweetness that comes only to one who has committed all things to the Master of human destinies.

He leaves to mourn his departure, his wife, two daughters, Mrs. B. W. Graham, of Wing, N. D., and Mrs. J. B. Swannick, of McKensie, N. D., two sons, Roscoe D. and Howard T. both of McKensie, N. D., and five brothers and two sisters.

HOLD LAST RITES TUESDAY

Chas. Crum, Pioneer of Burleigh, to be Laid to Rest in Illinois

Funeral services for Charles E. Crum, a pioneer of Burleigh county who passed away at his home three and a half miles northeast of McKenzie at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday, Aug. 14 at the age of 65 after a long illness, will be held Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the McKenzie Methodist church. The remains will be placed on the Northern Pacific train No. 4, east bound after the service and interment will take place at Virginia, Ill., in accordance with his wish to be laid to rest beside his parents.

Mr. Crum was born on a farm in Cass County, near Virginia, Illinois, June 30th, 1857. He received his education in a country school; The Protestant Methodist College, Adrian, Mich.; the Illinois State University, and graduated from the Jacksonville Business College and English Training School in 1877. He went to Nebraska in 1878 and engaged in farming and stock raising, and in the spring of 1882 went to Burleigh county, North Dakota, and worked in Bismarck one year at the Merchant's Hotel, and in that year he located in McKenzie Township and in the spring of 1883 began operations thereon. His success was due to hard work and he came to occupy a prominent place as one of the most extensive farmers and stock raisers of Burleigh county.

In 1883 Mr. Crum returned to Illinois and was married to Miss F. De Lapp, who has been his faithful helpmate and companion through the years and who has watched over him in his long illness almost constantly day and night.

He was a charter member of Sterling Lodge No. 777, O. O. F., a member of the Grand Lodge of North Dakota and a Rebekeah. He was township treasurer of McKenzie township for 16 years and always active in public matters, straightforward and honest in all dealings with his fellowmen, a man of generous impulses who never forgot the hospitable ways of the pioneer. How much this community owes him and such as he, it is impossible to estimate, though it would be a grateful task to trace his influence through some of the more direct channels and to hold him in his sterling character as husband and father.

During his long illness through which he suffered severely he was patient and uncomplaining, bearing up bravely and with a sweetness that comes only to one who has committed all things to the Master of human destinies.

He leaves to mourn his departure, his wife, two daughters, Mrs. B. W. Graham, of Wing, N. D., and Mrs. J. B. Swank, of McKenzie, N. D., two sons, Roscoe D. and Howard T. both of McKenzie, N. D., and five brothers and two sisters.

THE FATAL SHOT

You recall Gavrio Prinzev, the boy-assassin whose bullet started trouble between Austria and Serbia in 1914 and thereby precipitated the World War.

Prof. Stanoyevitch of University of Belgrade publishes a pamphlet attributing leadership of the assassination plot to Dragutin Dimitriyevitch, lieutenant colonel and former leader of the Serbian military party.

At the last minute he apparently changed his mind and tried to call off the assassination, but the situation had gotten beyond his control. Curiously enough, he had the idea that impending warfare between Austria-Hungary and Serbia could be avoided by killing Archduke Ferdinand.

Dimitriyevitch was court-martialed and shot in 1917 in connection with another murder plot. He was about 30 years old when he departed this life.

Prof. Stanoyevitch's pamphlet is historically important, for he had access to "inside information." He seems sincerely convinced that the Serbian government did not know of the assassination plot.

Many people will comment: "The war had been brewing for generations, so it cannot be traced to any act of any one individual."

However, is that true? The Socialists were close to gaining the whip-hand in Europe when the war rushed them off their feet. And it is, at least, remotely possible that the war might have been avoided if a half-witted radical youth, spurred on by a moron militarist, hadn't loaded his pistol and set off the fireworks.

The world is making a terrible mistake if it inclines to attribute the great war to fate—that it was inevitable.

Yes, things might have been different—tremendously different—if the boy-assassin hadn't cut loose with his pistol.

It's too late now, of course, to unscramble the eggs. But the pistol of Gavrio Prinzev should make us do a lot of serious thinking about the dangers of allowing pistols in general to get into the wrong hands.

There's a campaign gaining headway to stop the sale of revolvers except under police permit, especially by the mail order route. Back that campaign. It would partly disarm the criminal. Householders could protect themselves with rifles or saved-off shotguns—which cannot be carried by crooks without detection.

To stop murders by revolvers, take away the revolvers.

POISON FUMES

We live in an ocean of air, the same as fish live in an ocean of water. In the Air Ocean we are, to make a jovial comparison, like lobsters crawling along the bottom of the water ocean. Birds flit through the air like fish through the water.

The air we breathe is more vital in many ways than water we drink or food we eat. You can go weeks without food, days without water, before dying. But shut off your air supply and death comes in a matter of minutes. Close your mouth, pinch your nostrils tightly, and get the idea emphatically—what happens when your air supply is shut off.

Few of us would knowingly eat tainted food or drink impure water. We take great pains, and go to considerable expense, to insure the purity of food and water. But when it comes to the equally or even more important life-need, air, most of us are careless, negligent.

Impure air lessens our powers of resisting disease. The air in the average city is impure to a frightful extent, containing disease germs and fragments of filth, glass, rubber fumes and similar destroyers of the delicate lung tissues.

Most deadly of all is the poison gas generated by the millions of autos, a gas so deadly that it kills in a few minutes if a man starts his auto engine in a garage with the doors shut.

Air in the natural state is pure. Man adds the impurities, most of them. When our lungs become weak, the doctor sends us to the pure air of the mountains.

Now, impure air of city life doesn't start all into a decline by any means. But unquestionably all would have better health if we could do our breathing in the right place.

The next best bet is to get as much fresh air as possible, especially by taking outdoor walks, breathing deeply, sleeping with windows open. The air outdoors may be impure, but it is purer than stale air that has been breathed over and over inside the house and thereby become loaded with poisons cast off by people's lungs.

Summer is fresh air season. Take a dozen long, deep breaths whenever you think of it.

WALES

The Prince of Wales plans to visit America again next autumn. He wants to travel incognito, as a private individual, to get a line on us such as he was unable to get when he was here officially and was shown only what others wanted him to see.

Wise prince. Prominent Europeans visit us, are handled by the hokum dispensers, and depart with impressions of the hokum which they mistake for impressions of the real America. Delegations of Englishmen have been inspecting our prohibition. They go home and report what they were told by officials, what they observed at functions, when they'd have to go up an alley and give three knocks and the high-sign to learn the truth.

IMMIGRANTS

Thirty million immigrants have entered the United States since 1830. Uncle Sam has checked up the 14 million of these who still are living. Five million are in the Upper Mississippi Valley, same number in Middle Atlantic states, two million in New England, one million in the south, 500,000 on the Pacific Coast. The strongholds of the native-born are in the west and southwest.

Editorial Review

AMERICA AND MINORITIES

The period when Turkey was always willing to make promises is over. It may return, but, for the time being, Turkey is not making many promises. The result of this new spirit, as it manifests itself on the point of guarantee for Christian minorities in Turkey, is that the negotiations between Mr. Joseph Grew for the United States and Ismet Pasha are held up while the State department decides whether or not this country cares to conclude a treaty with that country which omits all mention of the desired safeguards.

Exactly what the State department expects we cannot say. Most probably it only wants some kind of an expression from the Turkish government as will take the political course of a treaty with a power which is anathema to a strong section of the American public. Turkey, perhaps naturally, does not care to understand this necessity, the new Turkish government is strong and it has nationalist emotions. It does not propose to admit the right of any nation to demand of it an expression which, in a sovereign state, lies within its own discretion, and pertains to a domestic question.

The United States can hardly expect to get from Turkey alone concessions which Great Britain, France, Italy and the United States could not get together. There can be no hope of obtaining a national home land for the Armenians. That was settled at Lausanne. The Greek question was also left in a conclusive, if not satisfactory, state. There is nothing to be hoped for there beyond the exchange of populations provided in the general treaty. In fact, on the broad question of minorities, the United States has nothing to claim except an innocuous and meaningless assurance, without which a treaty, if it is worth entering upon at all, loses nothing important.

Whether this question involves the rights of American missionaries and schools in Turkey is a point not clarified by the dispatches. These rights are of great importance, and certainly so treaty should be concluded at all if they are not to be upheld. But there is little in the question of the Christian minorities to complicate the rights of American educational agencies, and unless the contrary turns out to be the case, there is no point in balking at something which cannot be remedied.—St. Paul Dispatch.

WILL TAX PAYERS WELCOME GAS CUT?

The great state of South Dakota has gone into the oil business. After charging that the Standard Oil company was realizing nearly 100 per cent profit on its gas sales, Governor McMaster last week ordered the state supply depot at Mitchell to sell gasoline for 16 cents per gallon. Pretty soft for automobile and truck owners but we doubt if the majority of the taxpayers will welcome the thought of having the deficit that is bound to accrue added to their tax burden.—Dickinson Press.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

"Anybody else lost?" asked the Twins when they had found George and back safe to Pee Wee Land under the burdock.

"Well, I should say so!" answered King Snookums. "Jimmy Jumper went off riding on a grasshopper last night and hasn't been heard from since."

"Then we'll take our magic shoes and go and find him," said Nick "Come on, Nancy."

So away they went.

First of all they went to the stable field where the grasshoppers loved to play. And they asked all the grasshoppers if anybody had seen Jimmy Jumper, the lost Pee Wee boy.

"Yes, I did!" cried Silty Springs, spitting tobacco juice on the ground beside him in his excitement. "He asked me to take him for a ride and I did. We had lots of fun jumping fences and playing leap-frog with the other grasshoppers, 'n' everything so I came home."

Next the Twins came to the pasture where the cows were.

"Did you see Jimmy Jumper anywhere?" Nancy asked Bossie Cow, who was chewing and chewing at nothing at all while she lay under a tree.

Bossie Cow shook her head before she answered. "No, I haven't, but if you get this bug out of my ear I'll help you hunt. I crawled in there last night just after milking time and I can't get it out—no matter how I shake my head."

"Sure we'll help you," cried Nick. "Now hold as still as you can while I get my lightning-bug flashlight. There! That's the way. Oh, my goodness alive! Look who's here!"

No wonder he was surprised. For out crawled Jimmy Jumper, Pee Wee right out of Bossie Cow's ear!

"Goodness, I was tired," he yawned. "That was the nicest, warmest, softest bed I've had for a coon's age!"

A WINNING HAND

LETTER FROM ALICE HAMILTON TO MRS. JOSEPH GRAVES HAMILTON

DEAR MOTHER:

Although I know you intended to be kind I think you should have told me of Leslie's accident the moment it occurred. As it was you let me go on for a long time feeling quite hurt because she had not written me. Now I am filled with remorse that I could have thought for a moment that my darling sister would have neglected me when I was so far away.

However, I think had I received a telegram, I should have taken the next boat home. It sickens me every time I think of the good times I have been having while all the time she has been so ill.

I want you to tell Leslie that I knew nothing about her accident and that if she wants me or if she thinks that I can do her the least bit of good I will come immediately.

Poor girl! I believe I would die if I had been expecting such a wonderful event in my life as a baby and then had to bear the disappointment of losing it before it had ever been laid in my arms.

Karl was awfully sweet in telling me all about it. We are still talking about you all. He said that you let him go in and look at Leslie for a moment while she was asleep, so that he could even tell me just how she looked. He told me she was "just like a Madonna who had been deprived of her only child by Death."

He told me that Jack was thinking of adopting a child. I think this would be a lovely thing. Let me know as soon as you decide which way it is going to be and if you decide upon adoption, don't christen him until I come home. I want to get her out of my mind all day. This being married, mother, isn't such a cinch after all, is it?

Someway up until now I have always considered marriage a kind of glorified courtship under the sanction of the church, but now I see there are a great many responsibilities and cares connected with it.

Karl told me that you thought he had better bring these poor heads of Leslie's over here, but he dissuaded you from it. I wish you had let him bring them. I think they would go awfully well with my new pearl ring.

The ring of course is real, but everyone says that the beads are such a wonderful imitation that I'm sure they couldn't be told apart.

In one of her letters Leslie intimated that she was going to break the string in two and give part of it to Beatrice Grimshaw for a wedding present.

You may tell her that I will never forgive her if she does a thing like that. I wrote and told her how hurt I would be if she did it, but I want you to clinch the argument.

I didn't know that I would be as glad to see anyone as I was to see Karl. I wouldn't marry an Englishman if he were the Duke of Westminster or the Prince of Wales himself.

Please cable me exactly how Leslie is. Could she read a letter if I should write it to her?

I love you all so much,
ALICE.

Holy Carpet Causes Dispute

Cairo, Aug. 15—King Fuad of Egypt is having a lively conflict with

THE YELLOW SEVEN
A Game Of Chance

NEA Service, Inc. 1923

By Edmund Snel,

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Captain John Hewitt is Commissioner of Police at Jesselton, British North Borneo. Monica Vinay, Hewitt's widowed sister, is engaged to marry Peter Pennington, detective. Pennington is detailed by the government to "approach" Chai-Hung, leader of the Yellow Seven, a gang of Chinese bandits. Major Armitage comes to Jesselton and announces that he is sent on a very important mission. He explains that his business will keep him in Borneo for several days.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Armitage frowned.

"You'll have to alter that, Hewitt. I should give him a week in which to improve and if by that time there's no sign of improvement—fire him right away."

Monica, catching the light in her brother's eye and seeing danger, chimed in quickly.

"Do you go, Major Armitage?"

"My dear Mrs. Vinay, the man who carries out his duties thoroughly has no time for games. Which brings me back to my original subject. I want to get away as soon after lunch as possible, Hewitt. I shall need some bearers, a week's rations and a platoon or so of native infantry. I shall require also an interpreter with a thorough knowledge of Chinese, Malay and English."

"I see," said Hewitt. "Might I take the liberty of inquiring the nature of the expedition you propose making into my country—and why this tremendous haste?"

The major hesitated and looked at Monica, who had already risen from her chair.

"I'll see if I can hurry that boy," she said.

Major Armitage produced a cigar from an upper pocket of his tunic, bit off the end, and ignited it carefully.

Presently the preposterous circle of glass fixed itself upon Hewitt.

"Mrs. Vinay mentioned the name of Pennington just now," he snapped. "I suppose this fellow's still on your strength, wasting government money and making an infernal hash of this Yellow Seven business?"

The Commissioner flushed.

"I'm afraid I must disagree with you," he said. "Chinese-Pennington is one of the most efficient men I've ever been my luck to meet."

"Familiar with a knack of hearing only those people who agreed with his views."

"I heard of this affair when I passed through Singapore. It didn't take me five minutes to see that the thing had been hopelessly bungled. The way that man was making our status in the East look ridiculous simply astounded my nerves. I could tell myself that it wanted a soldier at the head of affairs. I offered my services and the offer was accepted."

Captain John Hewitt gasped.

"You've sent you out here to rout out Chai-Hung?"

"Those are my instructions."

Chief Constable, who had slipped suddenly across his mouth and his shoulders heaved convulsively.

"Sorry!" he apologized presently. "Bit of bacon went the wrong way. With an heroic effort he choked down the mirth that consumed him."

"So you're setting out this afternoon with a lot of men, a couple of airplanes, a motor car and a bunch of soldiers and some bearers. Oh, I was forgetting the interpreter. You'll scour the country, of course, until you knock across the bandit and—I say, isn't a week's rations cutting it a 'trifle fine'?"

"When you know me better," returned the other with dignity, "you'll understand that when I'm on a job—I go straight at it."

"That's extremely comforting!" he only wondered if you quite realized that the area of Borneo is roughly 250,000 square miles!"

Major Armitage waved his cigar in the air.

"Naturally I'm relying on you to give me every possible assistance. I have a letter in my dispatch-case to that effect from Trevelyan. I shall want a pushing-off place, so to speak."

"Such as?"

"The exact spot where your pet bandit was last located. A list of his places of refuge, a map and a service and rough memorandum as to his appearance, personal habits, etc."

"You can have a photograph, if you like, together with a copy of the circular I sent round to all white settlers. There's a slight amendment by the way: Chai-Hung has lost his left hand during the last few days. This gentleman was once the most respected Chinaman on the island. He engaged liberally only extended to the white people—and he would still be enjoying them if it hadn't been for young Pennington."

Chai-Hung is a big, fat Oriental, speaking perfect English with a fairly guttural accent. He is unscrupulous, merciless and has a distinct aversion to Britishers. His sign is a yellow Chinese playing-card with seven black dots upon it and he dishes these out as a warning of death or an indication that the assassination of a victim was carried out by the Yellow Seven. With scarcely a single exception every Chinaman on the archipelago is in league with Chai-Hung. It means that any undertaking against the bandit must be carried out with the utmost secrecy."

The other pressed the tips of his fingers together in front of him.

"All exceedingly interesting, Hewitt, I must admit, but if I may say so, a little far-fetched. Reading between the lines, you're all scared to death of this Chai-Hung fellow because you have every new outrage fresh on your memory. You mentioned the area of Borneo just now. That has very little bearing on the present question, because more than half the place is under Dutch management and the Yellow Seven confine their activities to British North Borneo, the area of which—if considerable—is certainly not vast."

Five minutes later, when the major had retired to the spare-room, the head of Chinese Pennington was thrust through the office window followed almost immediately by that of Monica.

"Oh, I say, Jack, isn't it perfectly priceless. Chai-Hung'll eat him—eye-glass and all!"

"He won't," retorted the Commissioner, "because you're going with him!"

"Know any more jokes like that?"

"I'm not joking. I'm deadly in earnest. Where d'you imagine I'm likely to discover an interpreter who speaks Chinese, Malay and English—except among the Chinese population, and I've already explained to the gibbering idiot that no Chinaman is to be trusted. Ring up the barracks, there's a good chap, and get me to Mr. Pennington."

Monica caught her brother's sleeve.

"Are you really serious?"

"Rather! I can't allow Armitage to make a fool of himself over Chai-Hung. Pennington got to act as guide, philosopher and friend to this already misguided lunatic. He's to change of course, but the part and gently lead the disciple of blood and iron into all those portions of the island where the bandit's least likely to be."

"Ye gods!" murmured Pennington. "Is this stunt going on indefinitely?"

"Until he gets so confoundedly fed-up with the entire concern that he decides to chuck his hand in. At any rate, he'll be back for rations within a week."

"Before we start," insisted the other, "there are just one or two points I'd like to mention. This Chinese interpreter of yours is going to be of the high-brow variety; not one of the sort, you understand, that squats round camp-fires with dirty bearers and smokes opium, but a tent to himself—and full rations."

"I think I can manage that for you."

Chinese Pennington carried out instructions to the letter. It was no very matter to avoid Chai-Hung's band of thugs, because the crowd such as Armitage insisted on taking with him could not fail to attract attention.

GIANTS STILL BRINGING UP THEIR LEAD

Defeat Brooklyn in an Uninteresting Game by Score of Three to Two

Chicago, Aug. 15.—Returning home after a successful western tour the Giants increased their lead in the National League pennant race yesterday, defeating Brooklyn in an uninteresting game, 3 to 2. Brooklyn's five errors contributed materially to the Dodgers' defeat. The second-place Cincinnati Reds did not play, remaining idle with the St. Louis Cardinals.

There was but one game in the American League, that between Detroit and Philadelphia at Detroit, who won 7 to 2.

The New York Yankees used the holiday in playing an exhibition game with Indianapolis American association in Indianapolis. Although Babe Ruth made three homers the middle-westerners won, 11 to 7.

In the Nationals the Chicago Cubs captured two games in Boston, 6 to 1, and 4 to 2. Boston made 12 hits to Chicago's nine in the second game but they were well spread. The Philadelphia Nationals and the Pittsburgh Pirates engaged in a run fest in Philadelphia, the home team winning 16 to 10.

CHICAGO CLUBS BOAST LEADING ROOK PITCHERS

By NEA Service

Chicago, Aug. 15.—In Cincinnati, the fans regard the showing of the veteran pitcher, Adolfo Luque, as the sensation of the National League.

Luque, an ordinary pitcher last season, has been the ace of the Cincinnati staff this year. His brilliant work has unquestionably made the Reds a stern contender of the Giants.

In Pittsburgh, the continued good work of the veteran Babe Adams is regarded as remarkable. The fine showing of another veteran, Grover Cleveland Alexander of the Chicago Cubs, is equally extraordinary.

Kid Gleason feels that in Mike Cevengros, discarded by the New York Giants, he picked up one of the most promising youngsters of the year.

Cevengros has been a winner with the Sox from the start. He would have done wonders for McGraw had he showed to equal advantage in the National League.

Unquestionably no young pitcher in the American League has done better work than Cevengros. Small of stature, built on the Dicky Kerr type, Cevengros has been a glutton for work, both as a starter and finisher of ball games.

Incidentally Manager Bill Killefer of the Chicago Cubs feels that in Tony Kaufman he has developed one of the best young pitchers in the National League.

Last season Kaufman did nothing out of the ordinary. This year he has arrived with a vengeance, and has greatly assisted Alexander in carrying the pitching burden of the Cubs. Kaufman has been as big a surprise for the Cubs as has Osborne been a disappointment.

There is no getting away from it. Managers Gleason and Killefer should feel a bit chummy about Mike Cevengros and Tony Kaufman.

MINOT TAKES AN EASY GAME FROM CAPITALS

Minot, Aug. 15.—Good pitching by Walters with timely hitting gave Minot an easy victory in the first game of the final series of the season with Bismarck. Both teams played a loose game and there were numerous errors on both sides.

Eddie Tobin of Mandan was not with the Bismarck team on the trip. Joe Day also was not present, having missed the bus in Bismarck and later coming up on the train. Tom Shanley was not with the Bismarck team, because of injuries, but may join it Thursday. The visitors also were without their bats and equipment, they having been delivered to the wrong bus line in Bismarck.

Bismarck 200 000 000—2 5 4
Minot 102 204 000—9 5 5

Jamestown Wins A Close Game

Valley City, Aug. 15.—Jamestown beat the locals, 2 to 1 yesterday. The game was called in the seventh inning on account of darkness. Umpire Calpepper was escorted from the park by police as a result of calling the game. Both Jamestown and Valley City protested the game, each in separate innings. Score by innings: Jamestown 100 001 0—2 5 0
Valley City 000 002 0—1 8 2
Batteries: Boardman and Wallin. Fidler and Carlson. Umpire, Calpepper.

Kamm Worth Every Cent of $100,000 Sox Paid For Him, Gleason Says

BY BILLY EVANS.

New York, Aug. 15.—Did Chicago get a run for its money when it spent $100,000 for third baseman Bill Kamm?

If you should put that question to Kid Gleason, manager of the White Sox, he would soon settle it and in most decided manner.

Prior to the opening of the season Kamm was the most talked about man in baseball, not excepting Babe Ruth or any of the other celebrities.

With the season well on its way Kamm no longer occupies the headlines. The flurry occasioned by the fact that Chicago paid a fabulous sum for an untried recruit has worn off.

What about Kamm?

I put that question to Manager Gleason coming up from Boston recently. We were sitting in the buffet car discussing players of the past and present.

Real Praise From Gleason.

"He's a wonder," the Kid popped off, "the greatest third baseman since the days of Jimmy Collins."

"Kamm works with such ease and grace that a great many of the fans fail to appreciate his remarkable ability. Like Jimmy Collins and Larry Lajoie he makes the hardest kind of chances look easy."

"Great third basemen must have intuition, they must sense the play that is about to be pulled. Likewise they must learn the mannerisms of every batter. Most batters you

Connie Mack, "Master Mind" of Baseball, Always Optimistic in Face of Losses

BY BILLY EVANS.

Philadelphia, Aug. 15.—Despite the fact that the Athletics are again trailing in the second division, Connie Mack must be regarded as the master mind of baseball.

Even though his club after a brilliant start now is floundering about, fighting to escape last place, Mack is still the optimist.

"Give me another first-class pitcher, a twirler of the Bender, Coombs or Plant type, and another fence-busting outfielder, and my club will come close to winning the pennant next year."

"I have the nucleus of a great team. It has been sorely riddled by injuries and illness, but it is still out there fighting for every game. It is a team that doesn't quit. That is the greatest asset of a ball club, gameness."

About the middle of June I was umpiring a series in Philadelphia. At that time the Athletics were being heralded as the sensations of the league. Mack's proteges were only about three games behind the even and in the sixth Smith again was flogged. In the eighth Rusty sent a shower of rights to the body, missed a left to the head and came back with a right to body that sent Smith down for the full count.

Andy Bolin of St. Paul shaded Burley Oland of Havre, Mont., in the ten round headliner. The fight was slow with neither landing effective blows.

Jackie Connolly of Valley City outpointed Kid Adams of Milan, Minn., in a preliminary.

Kid Connolly of Eckelson had little trouble defeating Glen Strain of Wheatland in six rounds. The bout between Eddie Wylie and Billy Johnson was cancelled.

Labe Saffro of St. Paul refereed all bouts satisfactorily.

Nearing 80, They'll Race Again

Plaisted and Reilly, Sculling Marvels Half Century Ago, Prepare for Annual Scrap

By NEA Service

Minneapolis, Aug. 15.—They're nearing the four score mark—these youngsters, Fred Plaisted and James H. Reilly.

But that doesn't mean a thing in their carefree lives.

Why, don't you know, they're getting ready for their annual sculling race. They're going to scull up some of these mere babies like Walter Hoover, Jack Kelly and Milt Belyea.

Plaisted, of course, contends he's going to win again. Remember how he covered a mile and a quarter on the Schuykill River last year in just 8 minutes and 35 seconds, edging Reilly out by only a very narrow margin.

Reilly's Got Irish Up

But he'd better watch out for Jim Reilly. There's plenty of fire in that Irishman's eye. He's out to get revenge—and a double measure of it—for his rotten luck in 1922.

A good many folks admit Plaisted stands the better show. He's quite a bit younger, they say. Fred's only 76. All this gossip, however, doesn't worry Reilly one particle. Why, a man's more mature at 75 than at 76, and possesses more strength and endurance. So this Plaisted doesn't need to go around bragging so much.

Ten Eyck Included

Again it was Plaisted who issued the challenge. And it included Coach Jim Ten Eyck, veteran Syracuse rowing coach—in fact, any boy of 70 or more who thought he could get the best of Fred Plaisted. But Jim hasn't replied yet.

Probably he'll turn down the bid just like he did last year. He doesn't care for such strenuous exercise right now.

Details as to the date and place of this year's Plaisted-Reilly classic haven't been worked out yet. But both Fred and Jim promise to keep their friends well informed on all developments.

Fifty years ago Plaisted and Reilly were champions. Ever since they've kept in condition by a little paddling every summer.

Father Time just doesn't seem to be able to get the best of them.

STORIES OF ATTACK DIFFER

Jamestown, N. D., Aug. 15.—Stories differ as to whether it was in or near the Northern Pacific yards of West Jamestown that Alvin O'Dowd, harvest laborer, was shot by Northern Pacific Detective Randall, and whether or not it was accidental.

From Northern Pacific offices information was given out that Randall's automatic pistol was accidentally discharged in a scuffle with "boes" in the yard, while O'Dowd's companions say they were attacked by the "bulla," namely, Randall with his gun in one hand and using his other fist upon them, and another man with a club.

At any rate O'Dowd is in the hospital here, a bullet having plowed across his shoulder, just missing the spine and lodging under one shoulder blade from where local doctors removed it yesterday.

Named Herbert Russell

Another man, who claims that he came in with O'Dowd Saturday on the harvest laborers' excursion rates from the twin cities and that they paid their way in and intended to pay their way out, says that O'Dowd's home is in Winnipeg and that relatives and friends will make trouble over his wounding.

In view of the row some months ago where railroad "bulla" shot to death two men in the jungles here, the matter is of considerable interest here although O'Dowd is not seriously injured and in fact did not know that he was hit until after he had left the scene of the scuffle.

WOULD SAVE GERMAN CROPS

Criticize Increase of Alcoholism in Germany

Berlin, Aug. 15.—German professors of hygiene have criticized the increase of alcoholism in Germany in a memorial addressed to the various governments urging that further steps be taken to conserve the national foodstuffs now used in making liquor, and to protect public health against the increasing consumption of alcohol.

Doctor I. A. H. Selter, director of the Hygienic Institute of the University of Koenigsberg, issued the memorial on behalf of the Society of German Professors of Hygiene. The document suggests an absolute prohibition of the use of foodstuffs, especially grain, potatoes and sugar, in the manufacture of alcoholic liquors.

"It cannot be contested," the memorial says, "that the production of alcohol deprives the German people of great quantities of foodstuffs. But it is not this fact alone which causes us to raise a voice of warning. We know by experience that malnutrition fosters alcoholism, and that, on the other hand, increasing alcoholism has a double effect on underfed people. We therefore ask the government to control, with all means at its disposal, the increasing consumption of alcohol. By this means the collapse of feeding can be prevented.

Dr. Selter produces Prussian statistics to show that the use of alcohol is on the increase.

Shortly after the publication of this memorial, it was announced that the producers of alcoholic spirits in Germany had decided to stop using potatoes in their distilleries, and would at once turn over to the food markets all existing supplies.

Why the Good Old Remington Pump Gun Still Outsell all Others

There's a new 20-gauge model, too—the best of the light-gauge guns. See it at your dealer's

ASK any of your friends who shoot a Remington 12-gauge Pump Gun—there are lots of them—what it is that has made this the favorite 12-gauge ever since Remington brought it out in 1900—the first solid-breech hammerless repeating shotgun ever produced.

Or better yet—if he'll let you—borrow his Model 10 and take it out in the fields or down by the water for an afternoon and try it for yourself.

Fire arms experts always comment on the precision and finish of the Model 10—the result of 245 separate inspections in the Remington plant.

And they remark that the receiver is machined out of solid steel—instead of made of stamped steel metal or a cored casting as is done with many shot-guns.

But the man who goes out for a day's sport or to get a few ducks or rabbits for supper isn't so apt to say anything about these technical features.

He'll tell you that the Remington Model 10 shoots harder and straighter than any other 12-gauge he ever had in his hands, has an action that never balks or clogs—and seems to get better the longer he uses it.

If you're in line for something specially good in a 20-gauge—

Get your dealer to show you the new Remington Model 17. This is a hammerless, solid-breech pump action, too. Chambered for 2 3/4 inch shells which gives it the power and range of a 16-gauge. It is comparatively new—but already many old-timers swear by it as a "real man's gun."

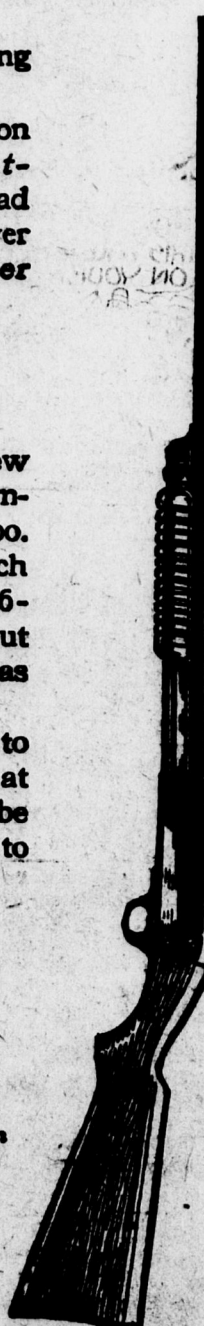

The first time you get a chance go to the gun rack at the store and look at these Remingtons. Your dealer will be glad to tell you anything you want to know about them.

Gluten Content Of Wheat High

Grand Forks, N. D., Aug. 15.—Reports that the gluten in this year's wheat crop in the northeastern part of the state is unusually high, and that the bread making qualities of this crop are therefore unusually good have been made by the Russell-Miller Milling company at Grand Forks.

Normal gluten content of No. 1 dark northern is said to be generally accepted by millers as 11 per cent. It is said to have averaged about 12 per cent here last year, while 14 tests made by the Russell-Miller Milling company in their Minneapolis laboratories showed from 12 to 14.3 per cent content, and five tests made by the agricultural college from samples obtained by Grand Forks County Agent D. B. Morris showed gluten content of from 12.16 to 14.96 per cent.

These five tests were: J. L. Bonifas, 1-2 mile north of Grand Forks, sample of Marcus tested 12.25 per cent gluten; Philip Saumur, seven miles west of Grand Forks, sample of Ruby wheat tested 12.16 per cent gluten; A. J. Kovnick, Thompson, sample of Kota wheat, tested 13.45 per cent gluten; John Haskett, Gibby, sample of Marcus sown with flour tested 14.96 per cent gluten; August Swenson, Gibby, sample of Ruby wheat tested 14.64 per cent gluten.

A very few tests have been made by the state mill and elevator, not enough, according to C. E. Austin, general manager, to give any indication of the general situation.

DECISIONS OF SUPREME COURT

From Williams County

First National Bank of Williston, a corporation, Plaintiff and Appellant, vs. Emma C. Burdick, Defendant and Respondent.

SYLLABUS:

1. Where the plaintiff, after the testimony has all been taken, moves for a directed verdict, which motion is denied pursuant to the statute, and follows seasonably, with a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict, which motion is also denied, and thereafter appeals from the judgment, upon the ground among others, that the evidence is insufficient to support the verdict, the question of the sufficiency of the evidence to support the verdict is properly before this court for review.

2. An accord and a party to the instrument, to discharge a promissory note past due, by accepting property instead of money, constitutes no defense in a suit upon the note against the person primarily liable thereon. Such an agreement is without consideration and unenforceable by anyone until fully performed by delivery and acceptance of the property pursuant to the agreement.

3. Where a person, who is indebted to the plaintiff in a large sum of money, and for whose accommodation a note for $5,000.00 was executed by another person, such note being held by the plaintiff as payee, delivers a quantity of promissory notes to the plaintiff, it is presumed, in the absence of evidence, that such notes are accepted and retained as collateral to existing indebtedness and not in payment thereof.

4. Where a party to an agreement is entered into between a person, not a party to a negotiable instrument and the payee thereof, wherein the payee promises to select notes from a quantity of promissory notes, to be later delivered, in payment of such instrument then long past due, and where, thereafter, a quantity of promissory notes is brought to the office of plaintiff, and after conversation and discussion, the payee makes no selection from such notes, but takes all the notes and says he will hold them as collateral and give credit for the note of the accommodation maker, pursuant to the prior understanding, and where no protest is made against this conduct, and where the party accommodated subsequently makes payments upon the accommodation note and in all respects treats the same as the substituting obligation of the accommodation maker, the accommodation note is not discharged by such a transaction, and no constitution is done in a suit against the accommodation maker by the payee.

GIANTS STILL BRINGING UP THEIR LEAD

Defeat Brooklyn in an Uninteresting Game by Score of Three to Two

Chicago, Aug. 15.—Returning home after a successful western tour the Giants increased their lead in the National League pennant race yesterday, defeating Brooklyn in an uninteresting game, 3 to 2. Brooklyn's five errors contributed materially to the Dodgers' defeat. The second-place Cincinnati Reds did not play, remaining idle with the St. Louis Cardinals.

There was but one game in the American League, that between Detroit and Philadelphia at Detroit, who won 7 to 2.

The New York Yankees exhibition game with Indianapolis, American Association, in Indianapolis, although Babe Ruth made three homers, the middle-westerners won, 11 to 7.

In the National League the Chicago Cubs captured two games in Boston, 6 to 1, and 4 to 2. Boston made 12 hits to Chicago's nine in the second game but they were well spread. The Philadelphia Nationals and the Pittsburgh Pirates engaged in a run fest in Philadelphia, the home team winning 16 to 10.

CHICAGO CLUBS BOAST LEADING ROOK PITCHERS

By NEA Service
Chicago, Aug. 15.—In Cincinnati, the fans regard the showing of the veteran pitcher, Adolfo Luque, as the sensation of the National League.

Luque, an ordinary pitcher, this season has been the ace of the Cincinnati staff this year. His brilliant work has unquestionably made the Reds a stern contender of the Giants.

In Pittsburgh, the continued good work of the veteran Babe Adams is regarded as remarkable. The fine showing of another veteran, Grover Cleveland Alexander of the Chicago Cubs, is equally extraordinary.

Kid Gleason, feels that in Mike Cvetengros, discarded by the New York Giants, he picked up one of the most promising youngsters of the year.

Cvetengros has been a winner with the Sox from the start. He would have done wonders for McGraw had he showed to equal advantage in the National League.

Unquestionably no young pitcher in the American League has done better work than Cvetengros. Small of stature, built on the Dicky Kerr type, Cvetengros has been a glutton for work, both as a starter and finisher of ball games.

MINOT TAKES AN EASY GAME FROM CAPITALS

Minot, Aug. 15.—Good pitching by Walters with timely hitting gave Minot an easy victory in the first game of the final series of the season with Bismarck. Both teams played a loose game and there were numerous errors on both sides.

Eddie Tobin of Mandan was not with the Bismarck team on the trip. Joe Day also was not present, having missed the bus in Bismarck and later coming up on the train. Tom Shanley was not with the Bismarck team, because of injuries, but may join it Thursday. The visitors also were without their bats and equipment, they having been delivered to the wrong bus line in Bismarck.

Jamestown Wins A Close Game

Valley City, Aug. 15.—Jamestown beat the locals, 2 to 1 yesterday. The game was called in the seventh inning on account of darkness. Jimmy Carpenter was escorted from the park by police as a result of calling the game. Both Jamestown and Valley City protested the game, each in separate innings. Kamm Worth Every Cent of $100,000 Sox Paid For Him, Gleason Says

By BILLY EVANS.
New York, Aug. 15.—Did Chicago get a run for its money when it spent $100,000 for Third Baseman Bill Kamm?
If you should put that question to Kid Gleason, manager of the White Sox, he would soon settle it and in most decided manner.

Prior to the opening of the season Kamm was the most talked about man in baseball, not excepting Babe Ruth or any of the other celebrities.

With the season well on its way Kamm no longer occupies the headlines. The flurry occasioned by the fact that Chicago paid a fabulous sum for an untried recruit has worn off.

What about Kamm?
I put that question to Manager Gleason coming up from Boston recently. We were sitting in the buffet car discussing players of the past and present.

Real Praise From Gleason.
"He's a wonder," the Kid bopped off, "the greatest third baseman since the days of Jimmy Collins."

"Kamm works with such ease and grace that a great many of the fans fail to appreciate his remarkable ability. Like Jimmy Collins and Larry Lajoie he makes the hardest kind of chances look easy."

"Great third basemen must have intuition, they must sense the play that is about to be pulled. Likewise they must learn the mannerisms of every batter. Most batters you

Connie Mack, "Master Mind" of Baseball, Always Optimistic in Face of Losses

By BILLY EVANS.
Philadelphia, Aug. 15.—Despite the fact that the Athletics are again trailing in the second division, Connie Mack must be regarded as the master mind of baseball.

Even though his club after a brilliant start now is floundering about, fighting to escape last place, Mack is still the optimist.

"Give me another first-class pitcher, a twirler of the Bender, Coombs or Plant type, and another fence-busting outfielder, and my club will come close to winning the pennant next year."

"I have the nucleus of a great team. It has been sorely riddled by injuries and illness, but it is still out there fighting for every game. It is a team that doesn't quit. That is the greatest asset of a ball club, gumminess."

About the middle of June 1 was umpiring a series in Philadelphia. At that time the Athletics were being heralded as the sensations of the league. Mack's proteges were only about three games behind the even in the sixth Smith again was floored. In the eighth Rusty sent a shower of rights to the body, missed a blow to the head and came back with a right to body that sent Smith down for the full count.

Andy Ball of St. Paul shaded Rusty Caland of Havre, Mont., in the tag round headliner. The fight was slow with neither landing effective blows.

Jackie Kennedy of Valley City outpointed Kid Adams of Minn., in a preliminary.

Kid Connolly of Bismarck had little trouble defeating Glen Strain of Wheatland in six rounds. The best between Eddie Wylie and Billy Johnson was cancelled.

Labo Saffro of St. Paul refereed all bouts satisfactorily.

Minneapolis, Aug. 15.—They're nearing the fourscore mark—these youngsters, Fred Plasted and James H. Reilly.

But that doesn't mean a thing in their careers.

Why, don't you know, they're getting ready for their annual scuffling bee. They're going to show up some of these mere babies like Walter Hoover, Jack Kelly and Milt Belyea.

Plasted, of course, contends he's going to win again. Remember how he covered a mile and a quarter on Schuykill River last summer in just 8 minutes and 35 seconds, edging Reilly out by only a very narrow margin.

Reilly's Got Irish Up
But he'd better watch out for Jim Reilly. There's plenty of fire in that Irishman's eye. He's out to get revenge and does the measure of it—for his rotten luck in 1922.

A good many folks admit Plasted stands the better show. He's quite a bit younger, they say. Fred's only 76.

All this gossip, however, doesn't worry Reilly one particle. Why, a man's more mature at 79 than at 75, and possesses more strength and endurance. So this Plasted doesn't get so around bragging, so much.

Ten Eyck Included
Again it was Plasted who issued the challenge. And it included Coach Jim Ten Eyck, veteran Syracuse rowing coach—in fact, any boy of 70 or more who thought he could beat the best of Fred Plasted. But Jim hasn't replied yet.

Probably he'll turn down the bid just like he did last year. He doesn't care for such strenuous exercise right now.

Details as to the date and place of this year's Plasted-Reilly classic haven't been worked out yet. But both Fred and Jim promise to keep their friends well informed on all developments.

Fifty years ago Plasted and Reilly were champions. Ever since they've kept in condition by a little paddling every summer.

Father Time just doesn't seem to be able to get the best of them.

STORIES OF ATTACK DIFFER

Jamestown, N. D., Aug. 15.—Stories differ as to whether it was in or near the Northern Pacific yards of West Jamestown that Alvin O'Dowd, harvest laborer, was shot by Northern Pacific Detective Randall; and whether or not it was accidental.

From Northern Pacific offices information was given out that Randall's automatic pistol was accidentally discharged in a scuffle with "boes" in the yard, while O'Dowd's companions say they were attacked by the "bulls" namely, Randall with his gun in one hand and using his other fist upon them, and another man with a club.

At any rate O'Dowd is in the hospital here, a bullet having plowed across his shoulders, just missing the spine and lodging under one shoulder blade from where local doctors removed it yesterday.

Named Herbert Russell.
Another man, who claims that he came in with O'Dowd Saturday on the harvest laborers' excursion rates from the twin cities and that they paid their way in and intended to pay their way out, says that O'Dowd's home is in Winnipeg and that relatives and friends will make trouble over his wounding.

In view of the row some months ago where railroad "bulls" shot to death two men in the jungles here, the matter is of considerable interest here although O'Dowd is not seriously injured and in fact did not know that he was hit until after he had left the scene of the scuffle.

WOULD SAVE GERMAN CROPS

Criticize Increase of Alcoholism in Germany

Berlin, Aug. 15.—German professors of hygiene have criticized the increase of alcoholism in Germany in a memorial addressed to the various governments urging that further steps be taken to conserve the national foodstuffs now used in making liquor, and to protect public health against the increasing consumption of alcohol.

Dr. I. A. H. Selzer, director of the Hygienic Institute of the University of Koelnberg, issued the memorial on behalf of the Society of German Professors of Hygiene. The document suggests an absolute prohibition of the use of foodstuffs, especially grain, potatoes and sugar, in the manufacture of alcoholic liquors.

"It cannot be overstated," the memorial says, "that the production of alcohol deprives the German people of great quantities of foodstuffs. But it is not this fact alone which causes us to raise a voice of warning. We know by experience that malnutrition fosters alcoholism, and that, on the other hand, increasing alcoholism has a double effect on underfed people. We therefore ask the government to control, with all means at its disposal, the increasing consumption of alcohol. By this means the collapse of feeding can be prevented.

Dr. Selzer produces Prussian statistics to show that the use of alcohol is on the increase.

Shortly after the publication of this memorial, it was announced that the producers of alcoholic spirits in Germany had decided to stop using potatoes in their distilleries, and would at once turn over to the food markets all existing supplies.

Why the Good Old
Remington Pump Gun Still Outsell all Others

There's a new 20-gauge model, too—the best of the light-gauge guns. See it at your dealer's

ASK any of your friends who shoot a Remington 12-gauge Pump Gun—there are lots of them—what it is that has made this the favorite 12-gauge ever since Remington brought it out in 1900—the first solid-breech hammerless repeating shotgun ever produced.

Or better yet—if he'll let you—borrow his Model 10 and take it out in the fields or down by the water for an afternoon and try it for yourself.

Firearms experts always comment on the precision and finish of the Model 10—the result of 245 separate inspections in the Remington plant.

And they remark that the receiver is inshutted out of solid steel—instead of made of stamped steel metal or a cored casting as is done with many shot-guns.

But the man who goes out for a day's sport or to get a few ducks or rabbits for supper isn't so apt to say anything about these technical features.

He'll tell you that the Remington Model 10 shoots harder and straighter than any other 12-gauge he ever had in his hands, has an action that never balks or clogs—and seems to get better the longer he uses it.

If you're in line for something specially good in a 20-gauge—Get your dealer to show you the new Remington Model 17. This is a hammerless, solid-breech pump action, too. Chambered for 2 3/4 inch shells which gives it the power and range of a 16-gauge. It is comparatively new—but already many old-timers swear by it as a "real man's gun."

The first time you get a chance go to the gun rack at the store and look at these Remingtons. Your dealer will be glad to tell you anything you want to know about them.

ADVOCATE NATIONAL BODY TO FIX PRICES

Suggest Stabilization of Wheat Prices and Minimum Price

STOP OVERPRODUCTION

Burden of Too Great Production Falls Upon Farmers

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 15.—Creation by the United States of a national wheat corporation which would establish a basic minimum price for all American wheat, and employ other measures for stabilizing the wheat market is advocated by I. A. Madden, farm advisor for Sangamon county, and well known in Illinois as a farm authority.

"Allowing the surplus of American wheat to get the price of American farm crops must stop if the farmer is to be saved from ruin," said Mr. Madden in outlining his plan.

"The United States should charter a national wheat corporation and appropriate sufficient funds for working capital. This corporation should then establish a basic minimum wheat price for all American wheat offered at the basic minimum price, then the national wheat corporation should step in and buy the wheat."

"Until conditions are more stable in foreign countries, the wheat exported would have to be sold at less than the basic minimum price. To make up the loss sustained on exported wheat, every bushel of wheat marketed should be assessed with a differential tax. This tax would vary with the surplus produced. If the basic price was such that there was an overproduction, then the tax would lower the farmers' price to where over production would be discouraged, while if there was a shortage of wheat the tax would be lessened and production stimulated."

"This plan would not interfere with the present grain trade, with the development of cooperative marketing, nor with the chance of a price above the basic minimum to the farmer who chooses to hold his wheat until after the harvest rush. It would, without subsidizing agriculture, put the labor and capital of the American farmer on a plane with the capital and labor of other industries."

"It would eliminate market gluts due to overproduction placing the burden of overproduction entirely upon the farmer. The consumer of wheat in the United States would be asked to give the farmer an equal chance. Only the extremely selfish would deny this."

"Approximately six hundred million bushels are consumed at home and two hundred million bushels are exported. This surplus is a millstone around the neck of agricultural prices."

The suggestion that American citizens should be induced to buy wheat was denounced by Mr. Madden, who said this plan would only aggravate the situation because, "it increases the amount of the surplus held in America, which sooner or later will cause prices to fall to lower levels."

PLAYING OF MISS WILLS IS FEATURE

Forest Hills, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Favorities came through without upset yesterday in the quest for national women's tennis honors on the turf of the Westside Tennis club but two of the eight seeded stars in the singles—Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, the champion, and Mrs. L. C. Clayton, one of the four English entrants—were extended to gain their third round brackets.

Mrs. Mallory, beginning a campaign of her eighth national title, found unexpected opposition from Miss Lillian Schurman, of New York, in the second round, and triumphed only after a sparkling duel, 6-3, 6-4. Mrs. Clayton who holds the English covered court championship won her first round match easily, but was forced to top speed to down Mrs. David C. Mills, Orange, N. J., in the second round, 7-5, 6-3.

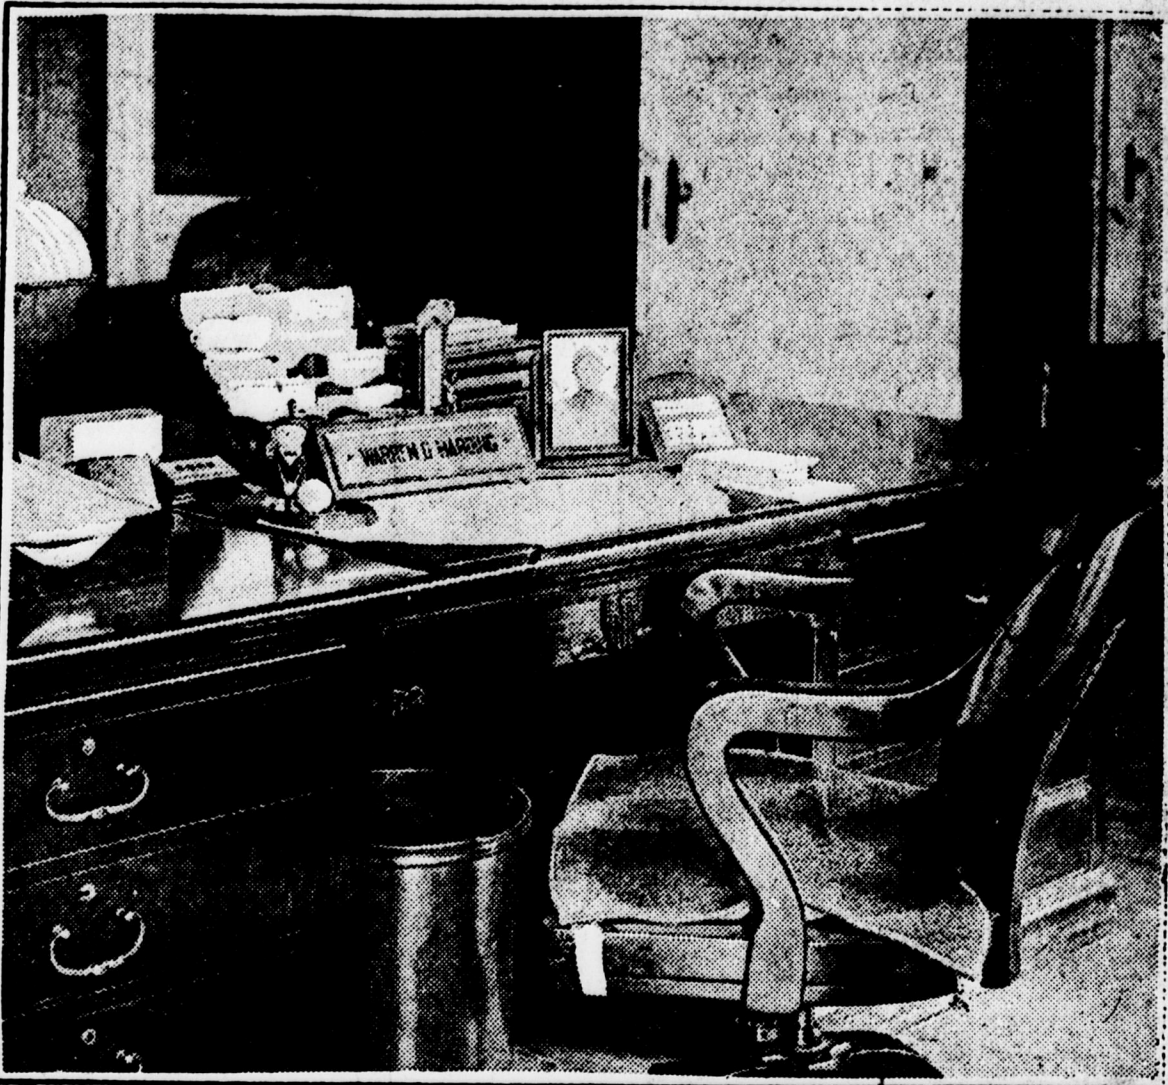

Britons Little Opposition
The brilliant play of Miss Helen Wills, 17 year old Berkeley, Cal., school girl, was another outstanding spot in the second day of championship play. The "wonder girl" triumphed convincingly over two youthful New Jersey stars, Miss Martha Bayard of Short Hills, 6-1, 6-3, and Miss Ceres Baker, of Orange, 6-0, 6-1. Aside from Mrs. Clayton, none of the British women gave much opposition but they performed in convincing fashion, nevertheless. Miss Kathleen McKane, ranking star of the invading quartet, swept aside Miss Louise Dixon of Philadelphia 6-1, 6-0, in the first round, and put out Mrs. Robert Leroy, of New York, in the second round, 6-1, 6-0.

MISTLETOE A DEADLY PARASITE
Washington, Aug. 15.—If the silent signal of the mistletoe hanging from the chandelier means anything to you next Christmas, remember for an instant that in the southwest it is a commercial pest, and that for 12 years scientists have been studying its depredations and how best to exterminate it.

Mistletoe fastens on the yellow pine tree, checks growth, and finally causes the tree to die. By the Department of Agriculture it is called an "insidious and destructive disease," and its eradication is an important problem.

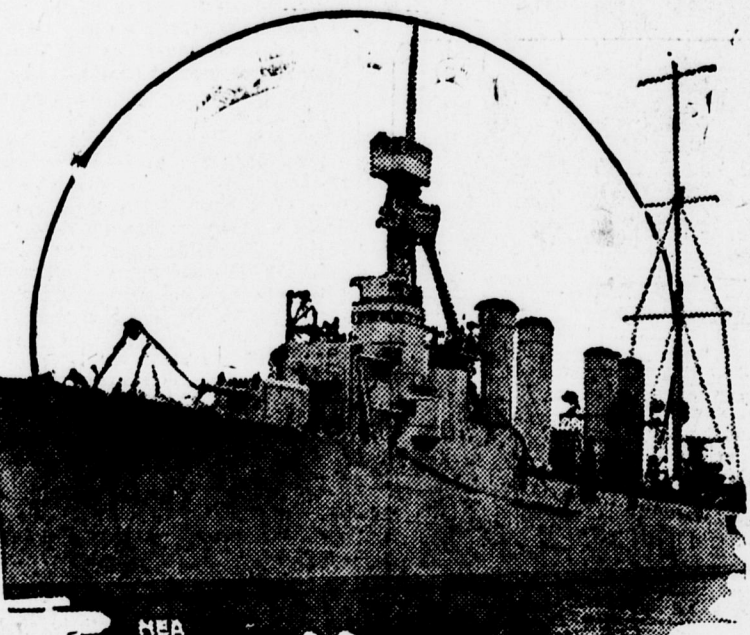

About the only way to get rid of this parasite is to cut down the tree.

Big Car Crowds Ford Over Grade; One Badly Hurt

One was seriously hurt when a Ford car was pushed off the grade east of Menoken Sunday night about 10:30 o'clock by a Hudson six, according to the report of occupants of the Ford.

The occupants of the Ford, Mrs. J. C. Tilton and children, Miss Ward and Mrs. Stillwell and Mr. Springer, saw the big car approaching and hurried out to the very edge of the road when the big car crowded them still further until their car turned over as it went over the embankment, causing the serious injury of Miss Ford who sustained a fractured rib and spinal injuries while the other occupants of the car were badly bruised, Mrs. Tilton asserts.

The Ford was moving very slowly or the accident would have been much more serious. The occupants of the big car did not stop to inquire about the victims of the accident, but drove on and the victims were picked up later by other cars passing, and brought to Bismarck.

The Ford was considerably damaged.

PROTESTS FINE IN STEELE

"Halt, in the name of the law! You are violating the speed limits," said a magistrate of Steele as Miss Alice R. Kooker of Dawson and friends in her car were driving through the Main street of Steele at the rate of ten miles an hour on their way home last Friday from the Druggists' convention in Bismarck, according to a communication received by the Tribune from Miss Kooker. Miss Kooker asserted she was not traveling over 10 miles an hour. She says Magistrate Crowell assessed a fine of $5, and is very indignant, asserting that "it wasn't the $5 that hurt us but it was the humiliation."

VALLEY CITY YOUTHS HELD FOR MURDER

Held After Preliminary Hearing on Charge Resulting From Girl's Death

JUMPED OUT OF CAR

Valley City, Aug. 15.—Marvin Crownhart, Oscar Olshy, and Ralph Hickman, Valley City youths charged with second degree murder in connection with the death of Elfreda Anderson, 18-year-old student at the State Teachers' college from Cathay, N. D., were held to trial on bail of $2500 each following the preliminary hearing before Justice Moe which ended here yesterday afternoon.

Hickman and Olshy are out on bonds, and Crownhart is expected to be released on bonds soon. The death was the outcome of an alleged joyride, during which Miss Anderson jumped from a moving auto to escape alleged improper advances of one of the defendants. She fell on her head, sustaining fatal injuries.

Mrs. Ida Davis was the first witness called by the state. Mrs. Davis testified she was a member of the school board at Cathay and was well acquainted with the Anderson family, having known the family for many years. When asked by Assistant State Attorney Combs, who is prosecuting the case in the absence of State Attorney L. S. B. Richie, as to the character of the girls, Mrs. Davis replied that they had been brought up in the most guarded manner and that their associates were of the very best. When presented with the state's exhibit No. 1, which is a picture of Elfreda Anderson, Mrs. Davis identified the picture and stated that it resembled the girl in every feature.

Miss Inez Noll, instructor in the physical education department of the State Teachers' College, was the next witness called by the state. Miss Noll testified that she, with Mrs. Stanley Mythaler were seated on the front porch of the Mythaler residence which is located at 14 Columbia avenue, near where the girls are said to have entered the car. She further testified that the boys were in the front seat and two in the back, had passed the Mythaler residence and had invited them to take a ride or something to that effect. She stated one of the boys held out his hands with two fingers outstretched, presumably meaning they had room in the car for two more. She further stated she had heard one of the boys say "ride girls" or words to that effect. This was said to have taken place sometime during the afternoon of Sunday, August 5, between the hours of two and three. Mrs. Mythaler, who was the next witness called, corroborated the testimony of Miss Noll.

Took Drink, She Says
Lillian Miller of Devils Lake, also a student at the local college, was the next witness to take the chair. She testified she noticed the boys near the cottage and testified she had seen one of the boys take a drink from a bottle which was alleged to have been in the car. Miss Miller also testified that one of the boys had put his arm around Elfreda, who with her sister Minnie, were at the time talking with the boys. After being asked several questions by Attorney A. P. Paulson, who is defending the boys, Miss Miller was dismissed. Helga Larson, a relative of Miss Miller, then took the stand. Her testimony was about the same as that of Miss Miller. She testified she saw the girls get into the car which drove down the street and turned west toward the road leading to the Walker hill where the accident is alleged to have taken place.

The court room was packed with spectators eager to know the outcome of the hearing.

STATE AUTO BODY TO MEET

Association Called For Gathering in Fargo

Fargo, Aug. 15.—A call for a meeting of the North Dakota Automobile association to be held at Fargo next Monday afternoon has been issued by F. W. McRoberts, secretary of the organization here. The aims of the meeting are to discuss the gasoline question, plan a drive for the year 1924 members and to consider ways and means for obtaining federal aid in the construction and maintenance of highways on a favorable basis. The latter may be accomplished by circulation of initiative petitions which the association plans to do.

Members of the North Dakota Good Roads association have been invited to participate in this meeting. By starting the 1924 membership drive this fall the association hopes to obtain sufficient funds to obtain ample supplies of road maps and literature on tourist travel.

COOLIDGE TO KEEP HARDING EUROPE POLICY

This Is Indication Given at the White House in Response to Inquiries

Washington, Aug. 15.—Indications were given at the White House that President Coolidge would follow the policies enunciated by President Harding with respect to collection of the foreign debts.

It was said by an administration spokesman that this government had every intention of going ahead with its efforts to fund the present obligations and collect them on the basis of such terms as may be agreed upon by the debt funding commission.

It was indicated that in the present crisis the American government can see no way open to offering direct aid and is hesitant about putting forward any new suggestion.

It was reiterated, however, that the United States would make a ready response to any appeal for aid that came from abroad when the help to be rendered could be given in the interest of the American people, regarded as the first responsibility of the American government.

Ready to Play Part
There was no specific reference to the British proposals for solution of the reparations difficulty, but insofar as the British plan ran along with the suggestions made by Secretary Hughes in his New Haven speech, undoubtedly the Washington government still stands ready to play a part in a new determination of the economic condition of Germany.

Whether that part would be through official participation by the government or not, it would have government still stands ready to make an ultimate conclusion to follow some such course.

So far as the present tense situation between Great Britain and Italy on the one hand and France and Belgium on the other is concerned, American officials have no comment to make and there is no indication that the coming of President Coolidge to his new post will affect the American attitude.

The cabinet yesterday did not discuss foreign affairs. A spokesman for the president, in making this fact known, added that it might be regarded as a hopeful sign.
